Bandit Suspect Captured in Gun Battle

YOUTH GIVES UP AS GLASS INJURES EYE

Fires as State Patrol, Village Marshal Seek to Quiz Him About Tavern Hold-up.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL HERE

Captured in Loudonville Hour and Half After Robbery; Prisoner Confesses.

A youthful bandit was under arrest in General hospital here today following a thrilling but brief gun battle with two state highway patrolmen and a village marshal in Loudonville last night.

The youth, who gave his name as Frank Willard, 24, of New York City, attempted to shoot his way to freedom when Patrolmen L. D. Alexander and C. B. Tieben of the Mansfield patrol station, with Marshal R. G. Schnittke, of Loudonville, sought to question him concerning the hold-up of a tavern in Wooster earlier in the evening.

Opens Fire on Officers.

As the officers sighted his car and drove up along side in Loudonville, Willard backed away from the curb and at the same time opened fire on the patrolmen and marshal.

The officers fired eight shots at the car, damaging the radiator. Neither Willard nor his captors were hit but a piece of glass from the windshield of his car, struck the suspect in the left eye and he quickly surrendered.

Treated at a physician's office in Loudonville, he was brought to Mansfield, and placed under a police guard in General hospital.

Admits Hold-Up.

Willard was apprehended in Loudonville an hour and a half after the hold-up of a Wooster tavern to which he confessed, Patrolman Alexander said. The Wooster robbery occurred about 10:20 p. m., and Willard was caught at 11:55 p. m.

A description of the suspect and the car he was driving was broadcast over the State Highway Patrol radio station at 10:30 p. m., ten minutes after the robbery. He was sighted driving down the Main street of Loudonville by the patrolmen and the marshal who

Anti-Davey Dems Want Metzenbaum In Primary Race

CLEVELAND — Anti-Davey Democrats today were in the midst of a campaign to clear the lieutenant governor field in the Democratic primaries for James Metzenbaum, of Cleveland, legal advisor to the Ohio senate's "legal graft" investigating committee.

Democrats opposed to Davey said a movement has been launched to persuade state Senator J. Ralph Seidner of Youngstown, who aspires to become lieutenant governor, to retire in favor of Metzenbaum. Metzenbaum is also a former state senator.

Frank R. Uible, also of Cleveland, and speaker of the Ohio house of representatives, is an avowed candidate for the post. Because of his close relation with Gov. Martin L. Davey it was said no effort will be made to ask him to retire, but that he might find himself labeled the "Davey candidate" during the primary campaign.

Metzenbaum, it was understood, is "willing" to become candidate but so far he has made no direct statement that he wants the post.

CHARLES WEST

ICKES NUDGES CHARLEY AGAIN

Turns West's Office Suite in Interior Department Over to Favored Assistant.

Undersecretary of the Interior Charles West who has been staging a feud for the past year with Secretary Harold L. Ickes over both personal and political differences, was reported in Washington dispatches today to have "taken it on the chin" again.

In fact, there seemed to be some doubt whether Charley "lives" at the Interior Department building anymore. While the former representative of the 17th Ohio Congressional district, which includes Richland county, was on a recent speaking tour for the Democratic national committee, Ickes is reported to have "stolen" the four-room ivory office suite and handed it over to a favorite, Assistant Secretary Elbert K. Burlew.

Today, Miss Mary Hobson, the lone receptionist left in the West headquarters after the Secretary removed four other assistants three months ago, was reported to have been taken from the sumptuous suite and put in a back room six floors up.

In this new office, Miss Hobson still answers the phone and keeps a file of West's papers. Whether he ever will return is still a question, because he hasn't been inside the building since January when Ickes took his four assistants away.

ELUDE CAPTURE

Kidnapers Made Him Write $3,000 Check, Farmer Says.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—A man and two women were sought on kidnaping warrants here today as the trio who took a 65-year-old well-to-do Hillsboro farmer on a wild ride into Indiana and robbed him of $3,000.

Harley Spruance, a widower who lives alone on a Highland county farm, signed the warrants against the trio and police traced them as far as Cincinnati.

Named in the warrants were Dorothy Hilderbrand, 17, his housekeeper, and her sister, Mrs. Edna Merritt, 22, a former housekeeper, and Mrs. Merritt's husband, James, 25.

On the trip into Indiana, Spruance said the trio threatened to drive to Wyoming and torture him until he acceded to their demands.

TRAINMEN DIE

Trapped When Locomotive Dives Into Arkansas River.

CANON CITY, Colo.—(INS)—A locomotive pulling an eastbound Denver and Rio Grande Western Railroad passenger train plunged into the Arkansas river seven miles west of here today when a rock slide plunged down the sheer walls of the Royal gorge.

William O'Connor, engineer, and Charles Hammill, fireman, both of Pueblo, Colo., were trapped in the overturned locomotive and scalded by escaping steam.

DECISION NEAR

Jury To Begin Weighing Fate of Columbus Divorcee Today.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—A jury of eight women and four men was expected to receive the case of Mrs. Margaret Humphreys, 39-year-old divorcee, charged with the murder of her lover, Heston T. Phillips, by noon today.

DUCE PARADES HIS NEWEST IN WAR HORRORS

Shows Hitler Chemicals, Fire, Artillery as Death Weapons for Next Struggle.

SPECTATORS SHUDDER

Ghastly Feeling Comes Over Crowd as Masked Soldiers Pass in Review.

(By Associated Press)

ROME — The next European war—if it comes—will be largely a struggle with chemicals, flames and artillery if Premier Mussolini's lineup of armed forces today in honor of Reichsfuehrer Hitler was an indication.

Also, it will be the "totalitarian war" of which the late master strategist, Gen. Erich Ludendorff, wrote, meaning that women and children would be quite as much drafted into service as men.

Mussolini showed his guest a whole "chemical regiment" that sent a shudder through the mass of spectators. The soldiers looked like beings from another planet in their gas masks.

Artillery Prominent.

A further feature of the impressive two-hour parade was the prominence given to artillery, from machine guns and anti-aircraft pieces, to heavy cannon.

How seriously Mussolini is thinking of future war as "totalitarian" may be judged by the fact that his review included not only regular army units but also small boys, girls in black uniform, teen-age youngsters on horseback, military units of university students and various fascist formations, including the colonial fascist police.

The dictators of two powerful modern European nations appeared in excellent spirits.

Mussolini repeatedly turned to Hitler to explain to him in fluent German gutturals the successive features of the review.

It was the second of four great war shows arranged in the honor of the man who rearmed Germany.

Sees Sea Maneuvers.

A sham battle and a mammoth aerial circus yet were on the program. Yesterday the fuehrer, favored by a calm sea, witnessed the maneuvering, with war-like precision, of Premier Mussolini's naval forces at Naples.

Observers said they were impressed by the intimate comradeship that prevailed between the two men.

It was believed Hitler again had assured Mussolini that his purpose of uniting all Germans in one reich would not apply to Germans in Italy.

German quarters flatly denied a military alliance was offered to Premier Mussolini, or that one was contemplated.

Stars Angered By Controversy

Kay Francis

Greta Garbo

Marlene Dietrich

Mae West

Hollywood was waiting to see what the "big name" (and big salary) stars would do about the blast directed at them by New York independent theater operators, who said they lost money on pictures in which the "big name" stars appeared, and claimed they were not worth their big salaries at the box office. Among the stars named were the four pictured above. Agents of the stars said some of them were considering court action against the theatermen.

Girls From 6 to 60 Bring Problems to Y. W. Daily

Fund Agency Dealt With 2,382 Individuals Last Year In Character Building Program.

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is another of a series of articles on Community Fund agencies written by Helen Allyn, a member of the Cleveland Press staff who is "batting" for Jane Williams on The News-Journal this week while Jane handles Helen's work in Cleveland.

* * * * *

By HELEN ALLYN

"How can I make my father leave my mother?"

That's a dandy question for a seven-year-old child to ask, but it's one of dozens that face the Y. W. C. A. staff every year.

Last year, this Community Fund agency dealt with 2,382 individuals whose problems ranged from the transient hitch-hiker stranded here, to the gray-haired woman who couldn't get along with her husband.

Allowed $6,100 a Year.

For straightening out the problems of girls from 6 to women of 60, the Y. W. C. A. is allowed a budget of $6,100. This maintains the headquarters, pays salaries, and incidentals that come up in dealing with nearly 2,500 people.

"It costs the community some $53,950 to maintain the social agencies," Miss Margaret West, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A., said today in talking about the fund campaign, "but it would cost them far more in a social and moral way if it wasn't for the agencies."

Miss West describes the work of the institution as being "not very spectacular but sound education in character training."

745 Enrolled at 'Y.'

The 'brother organization,' the Y. M. C. A., has a budget of $6,400 from the Community Fund and an active enrollment in activities numbered at 745.

1ST CONVICTION

'Open Bottle' Case in Court; Owner Fined $10.

Proving that he wasn't fooling when he warned drinkers against bringing their own open bottles to night clubs, cafes, and road houses, Ernest E. Williams, enforcement director from the state liquor department, today had his first Richland county conviction to his credit.

Found guilty and fined $10 and costs by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston was John Metcalf, 59, of R. D. 3, Mansfield, arrested at "The Lodge" in Ontario, April 29.

Williams said Metcalf's conviction would be the first of "as many as we need to stop this open-bottle racket."

New Orleans' Mayor Reads End of Letters First

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—Short, wealthy Robert S. Maestri is New Orleans' mayor whom the voters didn't elect.

As one of the late Senator Huey Long's three political heirs in Louisiana—the others are Governor Richard W. Leche and Seymour Weiss, hotel man—he was the city's political boss.

When the former mayor conveniently resigned, Maestri qualified for the job and was unopposed. The governor declared him elected. His unexpired term would have ended this month, but the state legislature remedied that.

By constitutional amendment, ratified by the people, the term was extended to 1942. Now he is the city's absolute head man without an opponent in sight. No man in recent local history has received such a favorable press.

His chief embarrassment comes

from clergymen's criticism of gambling in the city. When this is officially called to his attention he acts, but New Orleans is still full of handbook shops, blackjack games, and in at least one parlor on a main street the roulette wheels and dice go all day.

"I keep pretty busy," he explains. "I get up at eight and I'm out at nine looking at our projects. We got a lot of projects."

In the 20 months he has been mayor more than 70 miles of the city's streets have been paved and old buildings rehabilitated. Acknowledgement was given the WPA.

"I see everybody," he went on. "Maybe 200 a day. I can see 10 people in 10 seconds. And I leave 'em with a smile."

The city, he said, is "now on a cash basis for the first time in its history."

An aid interjected: "He reads the last paragraph of a letter first."

"That's to escape the build-up," the mayor explained. "All the early stuff in a letter is the come-on. The meat's in the last paragraph."

CINCY LIQUOR CHIEF INDICTED ON SIX COUNTS

Grand Jury Indicts in Probe of Campaign Solicitations in Civil Service.

80 PERSONS TESTIFY

Charges Based on Alleged 'Assessment' for Davey Campaign Fund.

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI—Frank C. Schroer, state liquor store supervisor, was indicted by the Hamilton county grand jury today on six charges involving solicitation of Democratic campaign funds from civil service employes in the liquor department here.

The six indictments resulted from a three-day inquiry into charges that the state employes had been assessed portions of their salaries to aid the primary campaign of Gov. Martin L. Davey.

Faces Fine and Prison.

Conviction carries a possible fine of $50 to $500, imprisonment for six months or both, and the statute provides also that any official so convicted automatically loses his position.

Nearly 80 persons testified before the grand jury, which conducted its inquiry simultaneously with another launched in Columbus by Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy.

Schroer yesterday refused to testify, asserting in a statement issued by Prosecutor Dudley Miller-Outcalt that he felt his testimony "might tend to incriminate" him. Schroer's counsel added a plea to the public to "withhold judgment" pending the jury report.

Assistant Atty. Gen. Will P. Stephenson said at Columbus that 16 persons had been named as collectors of funds in testimony presented by state employes there.

RULES OUT IMMUNITY

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Immunity from prosecution will not be granted to those named as collectors for the Democratic campaign fund when they testify before the special grand jury investigating a purported "shakedown" of civil service employes, Attorney General Herbert Duffy said today.

Collectors and solicitors probably will be called before the grand jury late next week after state employes have completed their testimony. The attorney general said he had the names of 16 so-called collectors.

LIFE OR DEATH?

Operation Would Blind Baby But Would Save Her Life.

CHICAGO—(AP)—An ailing baby rested in a hospital crib today while her heartbroken parents weighed a choice between blindness or death.

An operation probably would save the life but kill the sight of baby Helaine Judith Colan, 5 weeks old, medical men agreed. They predicted that without an operation, glioma, a tumor affliction from which the infant suffers, would take the child's life in two months.

The malady was considered unusual but the operation necessary to arrest it was said to be not dangerous in the average case.

BOARD EXPECTED TO TAKE OPTION ON BUILDING SITE

Meets in Special Session to Consider Recommendations of 5-Month Survey Calling For 2 New Junior Highs and Addition to Senior High.

BULLETIN

The Mansfield board of education today took a six-months' option on 10 acres of land at Cline avenue and Wood street as a prospective site for a new junior high school. The option carries the right of purchase for $7,000 at expiration. The board will meet with architects Wednesday night to discuss preliminary building plans for the building.

Meeting in special session at noon today, the Mansfield board of education was to take the first step in a proposed $1,000,000 school building program, which would include the construction of two new junior high schools, an addition to Mansfield Senior high school and improvements to a number of grade buildings.

As its first move the board was expected to take a six-month option on 10 acres of land at Cline avenue and Wood street as a site for a new building, the option permitting the purchase of the plot for $7,000. The second building would be erected on the site of the present John Simpson school, which would be razed following the construction of the other junior high building.

Recommendations for the program, designed to alleviate crowded conditions in Mansfield Junior and Senior schools, were submitted to the school board by Dr. T. C. Holy, director of educational research at Ohio State university, who recently completed a five-month survey of school buildings here.

DRAFTS $27,000 STREET PROJECT

Council Committee Outlines Repairs for 12 Streets in Place of W. 4th Job.

Council's street committee today had drafted a $27,000 street program that calls for the resurfacing and repair of 12 city thoroughfares.

Outlined by George Berg, chairman of the committee, the program includes the paving of one street, the resurfacing of five and the repair of curbs and gutters on six others.

Berg explained that the program had been drafted in addition to the work already planned after it had been definitely decided that the state would not assist on the resurfacing of West Fourth street this year. He said the funds set aside to meet the city's share of that project would be used for the resurfacing program.

The street committee at a meeting last night agreed on the improvements. The legislation will be drafted by City Solictor Marion D. Ward and will be presented to council at an early meeting.

Largest of the improvements include the resurfacing of Park avenue east from Junction street to Central park and those streets bordering the park. These would include that part of Main street along Central park, South park and North park street.

The total cost of this improvement which includes the resurfacing of the entire roadway with asphalt has been estimated at $14,500, Berg said, part of which would be paid by assessment.

New pavement with the construction of curbs and gutters also is planned on McPherson street from Howard avenue to Lawndale avenue, estimated at $6,000.

The committee also plans to spend $1,000 for the removal of

Plans call for financing of the building program through the issuing of 20-year bonds and a federal grant for possibly half of the total cost, provided the new PWA program is voted by congress.

While the board was not expected to set up a finance plan today, H. W. Arlin, president, said steps would be taken to get building plans ready as soon as possible so that an application for a federal grant can be submitted to the state department of education.

Provides Improvements.

The program, as recommended by Dr. Holy, would include the two junior high schools with a total capacity of 1,800 students, a one-story shop building at senior high school and improvements in most of the elementary buildings.

He estimated the cost of the two high school buildings at $900,000, and the shop building at $25,000. Remodeling of the old building would require approximately $75,000, he said.

Even a $1,000,000 bond issue, which would require the approval of voters in the city, would place no undue burden on Mansfield taxpayers, Dr. Holy asserted.

At an interest charge of 57 cents on each dollar, he estimated the total cost of the program at

Mrs A. D. Rowland, Park avenue west, was hostess yesterday when members of the Thursday Mother's club met. The brief business session was in charge of the president, Mrs. B. B. Keith, and following the afternoon was spent socially. The next meeting will be a covered dish dinner at the home of Mrs. Keith, West Fifth street, June 7.

THREE GROUPS HAVE REGULAR SESSIONS

Mrs. W. S. Valmore, Mrs. D. C. Jenkins In Charge as Missionary Societies, Aid of Central M. E. Church Meet.

THE Home and Foreign Missionary societies and the Ladies Aid of the Central Methodist Episcopal church held their regular monthly meetings yesterday at the church. The morning session was that of the Home society presided over by Mrs. W. S. Valmore. The worship hour was led by Mrs. E. A. Conant following which Mrs. L. A. Ogborn gave a talk on "Health Journeys."

Following the luncheon hour the Foreign Missionary society met with Mrs. D. C. Jenkins, president, in charge. The devotions were read by Mrs. William Bowie after which Mrs. J. C. Stout sang the special missionary song, "Are Ye Able." The program featured the topic "History of Well Known Hymns" and the histories of several favorite old hymns were given by Mrs. Ruth Orcutt, Mrs. Louis Rahn and Mrs. H. D. Bishop.

Mrs. C. P. Nye was hostess for the affair and she and her committee were in charge of refreshments and other arrangements. The meeting of the aid society completed the day's program. The next meeting of the three organizations will be June 2.

Mrs. Goodenough to Head Church Circle

Mrs. W. H. Goodenough, Lexington avenue, who was hostess yesterday to members of Circle Five of the First Presbyterian church, was elected president of the group at yesterday's meeting. Mrs. W. H. Gifford was elected vice president; Mrs. D. O. Meese, secretary, and Mrs. Forest Domer, treasurer. This was the first regular meeting of the organization.

Plans for the year's program were discussed and Mrs. R. M. Calene was made program chairman. Devotions were read by Mrs. Mary George and the afternoon was spent in doing work for the hospital. Hostesses assisting Mrs. Goodenough were Mrs. Lewis McCullough and Mrs. W. M. Armstrong. The Circle will meet again June 2 at the home of Mrs. Calene, 80 Highland avenue.

Fathers Hosts at Brinkerhoff Party

Fathers of the Brinkerhoff school P. T. A. entertained last night with a party at the school. The committee in charge of arrangements included Robert Black, Harold Dysart, Chester Cole, Carl Becker and B. M. Banks. Dr. F. O. Eckstein, president, was in charge of the affair attended by 45 members.

The program included acrobatic numbers by Miss Mildred Wappner and musical selections by a trio composed of Mrs. Edward Gibson, Mrs. Ernest Shafer and Mrs. George Ireland.

Bridge and other games were played and luncheon was served by the fathers. Door prizes were won by Miss Ruth Shocker and J. D. Graff.

CIO Auxiliary Elects Mrs. Somers Chaplain

At the regular meeting last night of the Richland County auxiliary to the CIO at the hall on Park street, Mrs. Mary Somers was elected chaplain. Members of the various committees including the label, law and sick committees reported.

Prizes were won in the games by Mrs. William Reed, Mrs. John Sawyer and Mrs. Roy McCartney. The next regular meeting will be May 19 at the hall.

FIGHTING FOX TOPS LIST OF TEN STARTERS FOR DERBY TOMORROW

By DAVIS J. WALSH

LOUISVILLE, Ky.— (INS) —As this sedate citadel, steeped in the gracious dignity of the southern tradition, suddenly forgot its years this morning and began to gibber and caper and antic in throes of a sort of civic buck-and-wing with the incoming pre-Derby mob, ten horses—the elect of the three-year-old division—waited in their stalls at Churchill Downs for the big moment, as horses will do and must. Ten, though not eleven.

The competitive ghost of Stagehand, winter book favorite, has been decently buried at last. The interment being official, final and permanent. This was attended to last night by Trainer Earl Sande, who read the colt not only out of tomorrow's Derby but next week's Preakness as well. I think he acted in the nick of time in order to save some of his reporter friends from themselves.

In fact, if they'd kept on exhuming the Stagehand carcass and rattled its bones once more, they'd have got right on the title page with the author of that engrossing volume: "How to lead a dull life" (without inconveniencing your friends).

All you had to do was to persist in talking about Stagehand getting up out of a sick stall to run 1¼ miles tomorrow and you just wouldn't have had any friends. The winner of the two great Santa Anita stakes flattened off in public opinion with his apathetic run in the Derby trial here early in the week and, after Owner Maxwell Howard made public announcement of his illness and withdrawal yesterday, there was no use trying to put crutches under the armpits of his prestige.

This was so low—for purposes of the Derby—by that time that it lay supine and spraddled out, with legs akimbo.

The ten survivors almost certainly will go through the entry box at the Downs this morning. But only two of them seem to matter, Fighting Fox and Bull Lea. Perhaps three, including Dauber; well, maybe four, including Larwin. All right then, make it an even five and include Menow.

But Sande said last night that, if you don't make it six and include the other Howard horse, The Chief, you won't have the winner.

"People were wondering what might have happened if the Derby trial had been a quarter mile longer," said Sande. "Nothing would have happened. Stagehand wouldn't have caught The Chief, if the race had been four miles."

In other words, this is still a horse race tomorrow, although they've had to call in the decorator and change the window display a little over night. The change hasn't been great.

Sande Says Chief Will "Breeze In."

FIGHTING FOX was co-favorite this week with Stagehand at 3-1 and is now the choice at 2-1. Bull Lea, getting the big western play now, is 5-2. Menow is, or should be around 5-2, and Larwin and The Chief 6-1. They tell me Dauber is about 7, which isn't a bad come-on price for a horse that can run on anything up to ground glass and is the only mud runner in the race.

But somehow the Fox figures. He ran magnificently a week ago in the Wood Memorial. He shipped well. He gave a nice "work" here during the races two days ago. He seems to be all horse. But they say as much for Bull Lea. As for The Chief, he beat Larwin here Tuesday in a head finish in 1:35 4-5, and Sande says he'll go the extra quarter in and like a breeze.

Mountain Ridge and Co-Sport don't seem to matter. Then there's Can't Wait, the idea being that maybe in this case he should. And, finally, I give you the remarkable Elooto, which is O'Toole spelled backwards. Possibly that's the way he's going to run.

Untiet Insurance Wins 'B' Pin Title

Agents Finish Two Games In Front of Printers In Close Commercial League Race.

ALTHOUGH winning only one game of their match with the HalBark Clothiers, the Untiet Insurance club walked into the throne room of the Commercial B league at the Meder alleys last night.

Led by Wayne Anthony's 267 game and 634 total last night, the Agents won the championship by a margin of two games over the Mansfield Printers, who completed their season with a pair of victories over the Mansfield Rugs.

The Q Billiards finished in third place, seven games behind the second place Printers as they ended their schedule with a clean sweep over the Burger Dairys.

In the other matches, the Willis Billiards, led by J. Dunn's 636 and Willis' 604, took two tilts from the

Nats Reduce Tribe's Lead To One Game

Indians Open Series With Athletics Today.

PHILADELPHIA— (UP) —The Cleveland Indians were backed to the wall in their fight to retain the American league lead as they came here today to open a two-game series with the lowly Philadelphia Athletics.

Johnny Allen, burly right-handed star, was to hurl for the Tribe with Lynn Nelson opposing him.

Cleveland had its lead over the fast climbing New York Yankees cut to one game yesterday when it dropped an 8 to 6 decision to Washington. The Tribe is only one and one-half games in front of the Senators in third place.

Mel Harder started in the box for Cleveland and for four innings blanked the Senators. In the fifth he ran into wholesale trouble and was knocked from the box as Washington pushed across six runs.

In the fatal fifth Elon Hogsett singled, Mel Almada bunted safely after Buddy Lewis popped out, George Case scratched a single that filled the bases. Harder then forced in a run when he walked Zeke Bonura. Jonathan Stone cleared the bases with a mighty home run over the left center field wall. Cecil Travis tripled and Harder went to the showers. Bill Zuber replaced him and Buddy Myers singled home the sixth run.

The Senators picked up another run in the seventh and their final counter in the eighth.

Cleveland scored three times in the sixth, once in the eighth and twice in the ninth. The Indians had the tying run on second base when Ken Keltner struck out to end the game.

Hal Trosky was forced out of the Tribe's lineup yesterday by an injured knee. He was replaced by John Kroner.

Merchants to Play Rex Billiards

The Mansfield Merchants will make their second appearance of the season at League park Sunday when they meet the Rex Billiards. Manager Russ Remy today announced that the Merchants have been strengthened by the acquisition of Bob Hammett and Gerald Weaver. The Merchants bowed to the Sandusky Auburns last Sunday.

Canzols Trim Cuemen, 9-7

In a game halted in the seventh by darkness, the Ira D. Ling Canzols defeated the Rex Billiards, 9 to 7, ata Liberty park yesterday. The Canzols never trailed after tallying four runs in the first heat. Bogantz hit a home run for the winners.

BUTLER HIGH ROUTS PERRYSVILLE, 14 TO 2

PERRYSVILLE — Butler high school baseballers pounded out an easy 14 to 2 victory over Perrysville here yesterday. Boals' home run with two aboard in the first inning gave the visitors a lead that was never threatened. Ward, who hurled the first six innings for Butler, allowed only one hit. Ten walks issued by Rowe were used to advantage by the invaders.

Legion Team Leases Fairground Diamond

Plays First Home League Game With Walter Miller's Logan Club Here Sunday, May 22.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

McVEY POST'S entry in the semi-pro Central Ohio league has leased the Fairground for its home schedule, which will be inaugurated Sunday, May 22. Logan, managed by Walter Miller, former Cleveland southpaw, will be the Legion's first foe. The Legionnaires pry off the lid Sunday against the Federal Glassmen in Columbus, and make their second appearance at Coshocton the following week.

Ol' Dewey Stover is socking the apple at a .390 pace for his third place Moultrie, Ga., club . . . and Wayne Blackburn, with the Syracuse Chiefs, is just beginning to find the International league pitching tough. He has been benched, and may soon find himself sent out for more experience.

Gordon Mann, a pretty good pitcher with Marion last summer, has just chalked up his second Pacific Coast league victory. Although taken out in the sixth for a pinch hitter, he received credit for a 5 to 3 win over Hollywood, which scored all of its runs in the first. . . . Dewey Durant, pilot of the Legion team, was seriously thinking about securing Pat Malone to hurl the Logan opener, but the former big league star, who went to his home in Milan after quitting Minneapolis, has been sold to Baltimore.

Barrett Helps Hal With Home Run.

JOHNNY BARRETT broke in the Hazelton, Pa., Eastern league lineup in the second game of the season, but whether Steve Patras is still a member of the team is not known. Johnny stole a pair of bases in his first game, and cracked out a home run in his second to to help Hal Cheney turn back Wilkes-Barree, 5 to 2. Big Hal gave up six hits in his debut.

If the Indians should happen to win the title, the betting commissioners will take a terrible beating. It's said that more money has been wagered in the spring books on the Tribe than even the Yanks or Cubs.

Bowl in Cincy This Week-End

The lone Mansfield entrant in the National Women's Bowling congress now in progress in Cincinnati will take its turn at pounding down the maples this weekend.

The team, sponsored by the Liederkranz club, consists of Sophie Meder, Thelma Linster, Hazel Hilborn, Margaret Baker and Mary McMullen. The Liederkranz keglers are scheduled in the five-women event Saturday night and singles and doubles Sunday.

Streaks Engage Streaks

Mansfield Thin-Clads End Home Season at Stadium With Sandusky.

SATURDAY will pit the Red Streaks against the Blue Streaks in the final track and field session of the current season at 2:30 p. m. at Stadium field.

The Red Streaks, of course, represent Mansfield high school, and the Blue Streaks will carry the Sandusky banner.

May Tell Tale.

What occurs out there on the spike-marked turf Saturday will have a definite bearing on the outcome of the district championships to be staged in Fremont in two weeks.

Sandusky will go into the dual affair heavily favored to win. The dual affair may run true to form, too. However, Coach Harry Mehock's thinlies are expected to make it interesting for the visitors.

Although shorn of the Mansfield Relays toga, the invading Streaks stack up as one of the outstanding track teams in the district, but may not pack enough power to retain the state honors they won last spring in Columbus.

Notable of the performers Coach Bob Whittaker will bring to Mansfield are Rogers, a miler; Riedy, a half miler; Thomas, pole vaulter, and the Gant cousins, field men.

Engages Linta.

John Linta, Mansfield crack pole vaulter, is expected to be offered his first stiff competition in a dual meet this year by Thomas. Thomas was no match for Linta in the Relays competition, but he has been doing fine work in dual meets, and may offer the Mansfield star some trouble.

Mehock will send Linta and a couple of other performers to Salem for the night relays there Saturday night.

East-West Duel Looms in Derby

Fighting Fox, Bull Lea Strong Choices After Stagehand Is Withdrawn Because of Illness.

By ORLO ROBERTSON

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—(U.P.)—Having survived the unexpected loss of its highly regarded winter book favorite, the Kentucky Derby will be run tomorrow, for the 63rd time since Aristides, the little red horse, romped home a winner in 1875, with prospects of an east-west duel for the $50,000 pot of gold.

Fighting Fox, racing for William Woodward, New York banker, and Bull Lea, owned by Warren Wright of Chicago, were established the strong choices today as Trainer Earl Sande joined with Owner Maxwell Howard in declaring the ailing Stagehand definitely out of the three-year-old classic.

Taking No Chances.

Stagehand, held as short as 5-2 in the future books following his victory over Seabiscuit in the Santa Anita handicap, apparently was well on his way to recovery from a cold but Sande said he was taking no chances.

Most of the followers of Stagehand quickly backed the Fox and Bull Lea but a few stuck with Sande, believing that he has a powerful threat in The Chief, winner of the mile trial stakes on Tuesday in track record equalling time.

The Fox will go postward at odd of 5 to 2 or shorter with plenty of support for Bull Lea at 3 to 1 or less. Post time will be about 4:30 p. m. (CST).

The unexpected withdrawal of Stagehand marked the third time since 1931 that the future book favorite fell by the wayside. Equipoise went lame on the eve of the 1931 renewal and Chance Sun suffered the same misfortune two days before the 1935 running.

Although there is every prospect of fair weather and a fast track, not more than eight horses are expected to oppose the favorites. If it should come mud, then at least two of the prospective starters will be scratched. Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Mountain Ridge and Bert Friend's Co-Sport, both rank outsiders, are strictly fast track performers.

Lawrin, lanky bay from Herbert M. Woolf's Woolford farm of Kansas City, and Menow, a speed demon from the Blue Grass owned by Hal Price Headley, are so well fancied in some quarters that they are quoted co-third choices at 6 to 1. The Chief if rated as good as 8 to 1 and William DuPont, jr.'s, Dauber of Wilmington, Del., at 10 to 1. Dauber's odds would drop considerably in event of mud.

Rated at 15 to 1.

Even a triumph by Myron Selznick's Can't Wait would not be exactly an upset, although his trainer, Tommy Taylor, is none too confident the little colt can carry 126 pounds the derby distance. He is rated at 15 to 1.

As Joe Goes, So Go Yanks

DiMaggio Hits Homer, Also Triple and Single.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—When the New York Yankees opened the current season in disastrous fashion and fell deep into the second division there were whispering suspicions that the world champions were cracking up.

As the Yanks languished in the lower regions of the American league Joe DiMaggio was devoting his full time to his San Francisco restaurant, a stubborn holdout victim.

DiMaggio finally signed at the original contract figure offered him and as soon as he broke into the lineup the Yanks began to function with their old time power.

Today the east was singing "As DiMaggio Goes, So Go the Yanks." Both were doing all right at the moment. DiMaggio secured three hits yesterday and the New Yorker's climbed to within one game of first place by edging the St. Louis Browns 12 to 10. Included in DiMaggio's hit collection were a home run, a triple and a single.

The Yanks gained a full game on the league-leading Cleveland team when the Indians fell before Washington 8 to 6.

IT'S ALL BASEBALL TO TONY

By AURELIUS KINSEY

CHICAGO—(AP)—So far as Tony Lazzeri is concerned it's all baseball, whether as handy man for the Chicago Cubs of the National league or for New York in the American league.

"I can't see any difference in the circuits," he said, making a dead-eye shot into the dressing room cuspidor. "It's a little early in the season yet, but so far as I can figure it's baseball—wherever you play it."

Lazzeri has been making a pretty snappy record for himself since young Philip K. Wrigley, owner of the Cubs, got him from the Yanks five months ago.

Hired as Coach.

Tony came to the Cubs as coach, strategist and utility second-baseman. His experience was supposed to make up for whatever might be burned out of him because he is 35 years old, but if anyone had the idea the Italian veteran was burned out he was mistaken.

Shortly after the 1938 season opened, Lazzeri had a .375 batting average, had made a dozen hits, including four homers, and had given the Cubs reliable support at third and shortstop. He is in the pink of condition and stands ready for anything.

What difference does it make if he is playing in the American or National league? He insists it is all the same to him, and that goes for the baseballs and for the guys who throw 'em.

"Is there a difference between American and National league baseballs?" He repeated the question. "I didn't know it. You hit 'em all alike."

The reporter touched on the rumor the American league "rabbit ball" favors the pitcher and the National league ball, the batter. Just a slight difference in hide thickness and stitching, you see.

More Later.

Tony switched to the left cheek and blinked.

"It's all news to me," he insisted solemnly. "There may be a difference but if there is I haven't found it out—it's all baseball, wherever it is."

That looked like the final score, but as a parting shot Tony made one suggestion.

STOCK LEADERS SHIFTING OVER NARROW RANGE

Utilities, Rails Edge Forward, Other Groups Decline, Bonds Advance.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Stock market leaders had difficulty in selecting a route today and prices consequently shifted over a narrowly irregular range.

A few utilities and rails edged forward, but many other groups were at a standstill or inclined to give ground.

Rail bonds continued to tilt upward. Commodities were uneven.

Hunting for recovery clues, analysts studied week-end trade reviews and noted that Dun & Bradstreet estimated retail buying in the principal centers averaged 2 to 5 per cent above the previous week but was 4 to 10 per cent under the comparable period a year ago.

Another survey found that first quarter department store sales in 10 of 70 cities from which figures were obtained compared favorably with volumes in the same months last year despite the fact that the 1938 quarter did not include Easter.

At the same time, it was added, liquidation of inventories in many industries during the initial quarter was disappointingly slow.

office where West's four assistant and receptionist used to be, there still is a bright metal frame but the card is gone. On the desk inside the reception hall, the telephone box on a desk, bears a card which reads, "Burlew."

Office or not, Mr. West is still undersecretary of the interior at $10,000 a year, and is reported to refuse comment on the latest verbal "right to the jaw." Friends said a showdown on the year-old quarrel is expected next week when the president returns.

ROUND-UP OPENS

Book Campaign for Friendly House Begins Saturday.

The annual round-up of books and magazines for the Friendly House, sponsored by the Mansfield Junior Association of Commerce, will get under way Saturday morning in the city, Robert Kuhn, chairman of the book collection committee, said today.

Members of the association will make trips through the city tomorrow and Saturday, May 14, collecting book and magazine contributions reported to the Friendly House.

Persons with books, pamphlets or magazines to donate are urged by the association committee to report their names and addresses to the Friendly House, at Canal 1823.

Bound books or magazines will be welcomed, regardless of the condition of the bindings, committee members said. Damaged books will be repaired at the Friendly House.

THEATER

LIGHTS, camera, action: Charles Farrell will be seen in his first Hollywood picture in three years with Shirley Temple in "Lucky Penny." The last time Charlie worked with Shirley, the little heart-breaker never made the final screen. Before the show, "Change of Heart," was released, Shirley had made "Little Miss Marker" and was hailed as a star. She was cut out of the first picture, not because she wasn't good, but because the studio thought the part wasn't good enough for her. In the new picture, Charlie plays the part of Shirley's father.

Need A Spring Tonic?

Heralded as a spring tonic, "Doctor Rhythm" will open at the afternoon show of the Ohio tomorrow. There also will be a midnight show. Seven new songs, including the already popular "On the Sentimental Side," are sung by Bing Crosby in his latest comedy-musical. Sharing honors with Bing, the doctor of rhythm, is Beatrice Lillie, London's Lady Peel who is called England's reigning queen of comedy. Mary Carlisle again furnishes the love interest in the film which shows Bing as a Park avenue doctor who masquerades as a policeman for a day and falls in love with his first assignment. "There's Always a Woman" with Joan Blondell plays through tonight.

Love On A Dime.

When a girl can't live on $10,000 a week (thanks to the family parasites) you'd hardly expect her to have a good time for $1.85. Irene Dunne does just that in the Madison's new film, "Joy For Living," opening tomorrow After three years of acting and producing pictures in England, Douglas Fairbanks, jr., has come back to Hollywood and appears in this new musical comedy. Alice Brady and Eric Blore, both known for their crazy antics in the recent comedy whirl, take supporting roles with Guy Kibbee and Jean Dixon helping the fun along.

Will Rogers—Teacher.

The late Will Rogers is given credit by Evelyn Venable, star of "Female Fugitive" at the Majestic theater, for teaching her everything she knows about the screen. Evelyn's first picture was "David Harum" in which Rogers starred She was drafted from the stage at his request. Since that time, Miss Venable appeared in more than 30 pictures, and eight of them were with the beloved comedian. Not only did he help her to a career, but also introduced her to Hal Mohr, well known cameraman who is her husband and father of her two small daughters, Rosalia and Delores. The other feature is Tim McCoy in "West of Rainbow's End."

Call A Doctor.

While "Partners of the Plains" was being filmed, the new picture in the Hopalong Cassidy series showing at the Ritz tomorrow, most of the actors of the cast were afflicted with "smoked eyes" resulting from one of the most spectacular forest fire sequences seen on the screen. William Boyd is the hero of the series, as usual, with John Warburton as his enemy. On the double-feature bill is the mystery, "Thank You, Mr. Moto" starring Peter Lorre as the celebrated sleuth. Others in the cast are Pauline Frederick, Jayne Regan and Sidney Blackmer.

TRIO COMPETES IN TOURNAMENT

Students to Represent Senior High In Contest at Granville.

Three students of Senior High school will represent the school in a one-act play tournament Saturday at Denison university at Granville.

The three students are Willis Lewis, Donald Speakman and Harold Loesch, and they will present the play "Sky Fodder." The play is the same one the trio won first place with in the annual play tournament sponsored by Ashland college April 8.

High schools from north central Ohio will participate. Earl Heasley, dramatic instructor at the high school, will accompany the students, and Marguerite Miller will act as prompter.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE— So What? By Harold Gray

SHUX! THAT'S A BUM BREAK - YUH'D THINK A LIBRARY'D HAVE COPIES O' NEWSPAPERS ALL TH' WAY BACK- BUT THEY'VE ONLY GOT 'EM BACK TWENTY YEARS-
SEEMS THERE WAS A BIG FIRE - LIBRARY, PLICE STATION, NEWSPAPER---ALL WENT UP IN SMOKE---- OH, THERE'S OLD MR. BALLAST--- HELLO, MR. BALLAST-
WELL, WELL! HELLO, ANNIE! STOP AN' SET!
MUSTA BEEN AN AWFUL BIG FIRE YUH HAD HERE TWENTY YEARS AGO- BURNED EVERY RECORD IN TOWN, THEY SAY-
HEH! HEH! MIGHTY NEAR DID - BUT NOT ALL OF 'EM - NOPE- NOT QUITE-
I RECALL THAT NIGHT PUFFIC-LY - I WAS IN TH' BACK ROOM AT TH' PLICE STATION - COULD SEE 'FORE LONG THAT TH' STATION WAS BOUND T'GO--- SO-OO-O-----

THE NEBBS— Sick Man—Well Man! By Sol Hess

WELL, I'M GLAD TO SEE YOU UP FEELING O.K. AGAIN?
I'M ABLE TO BE UP BUT A LONG WAY FROM FEELING MY OLD SELF YET--HOW DID THE TRIAL COME OUT?
THERE WASN'T ANY TRIAL--KROY, THE POOR FELLOW; PASSED AWAY --A HEMORRHAGE FROM THE OLD INJURY
POOR FELLOW? THAT'S A FUNNY WAY TO FEEL ABOUT A GUY WHO ROBS YOU AND THEN THREATENS YOU IF YOU TESTIFY AGAINST HIM!
I GLORY IN YOUR SPUNK TO PROSECUTE HIM...I HAVE NO SYMPATHY WITH CROOKS...I'D NEVER COMPROMISE WITH THEM! HE'S LUCKY HE'S GONE!
I HAVE--YOU CAN'T TELL WHAT STARTED THIS FELLOW...MAYBE IT WAS HOME ENVIRONMENT, BAD ASSOCIATES--LACK OF OPPORTUNITY...I BELIEVE A MAN SHOULD BE PUNISHED FOR HIS SINS BUT I'M NOT ALWAYS SURE IT'S ALL HIS FAULT!

LI'L ABNER— Mr. Yokum Goes to Town. By Al Capp

WHEN-AT THE END OF "GAT" GARSON'S 10-DAY "HONOR PAROLE", THE WARDEN'S DOOR OPENED AND LI'L ABNER WALKED IN- BOTH THE WARDEN AND THE HEAD GUARD ASSUMED THAT IT WAS THE PAROLED GUNMAN, GARSON- RETURNING-
TO BE PERFECTLY FRANK MY BOY, I DIDN'T THINK YOU'D COME BACK. THERE'S GOOD STUFF IN A MAN WHO'LL RETURN TO PRISON TO SERVE OUT FIVE MORE YEARS AT HARD LABOR!!
WHUT IS YO' TALKIN' 'BOUT?-AH HAIN'T STAYIN' H'YAR-AH'M GOIN'!!
DON'T GET VIOLENT, SON!- -DON'T RUIN YOUR RECORD!
AH'LL RUIN ANY-BODY WHICH TRIES T'KEEP ME H'YAR!!- SO YO'D PULL A SHOOTIN'-IRON, WOULD YO'!!
RIOT CALL! WARDEN'S OFFICE!!
IT'S GAT GARSON!! HE'S ATTACKING THE WARDEN AND THE HEAD GUARD!
THE CRAZY FOOL!- THEY'LL GIVE HIM AN' EXTRA TEN YEARS FOR THIS!

TAKE PROBLEMS TO Y. W. DAILY

Girls From 6 to 60 Seek Aid of Community Fund Agency Annually.

Like the Y. W., the men's and boys' organization is a character-building social agency that keeps boys busy.

This summer, they are hoping to have a day camp similar to the camp of the Y. W. C. A. that will be held this year from July 13 to Aug. 1.

"Last year we had an odd jobs bureau and managed to keep the boys fairly busy," Ralph B. Chapman, general secretary, said. "We'll still have the bureau this year, but I imagine the majority of the residents will be doing their own odd jobs."

Mr. Chapman and Miss West both realize the importance of guiding young people towards a better living. They know that if boys and girls have no place to meet others of their own age, they'll hang around corners and get mixed up with "the gang."

"What we have to do," Miss West said, "to sell the Community Fund, is to make the people here realize how much more it would cost them if they didn't have the social agencies to keep the town's moral and social standards from going down hill."

DRAFTS $27,000 STREET PROJECT

Council Committee Outlines Repairs for 12 Streets in Place of W. 4th Job.

the old car rails on Park avenue west from Main street to Mulberry street. It was explained that the Mansfield Rapid Transit company, which purchased the franchise of the Ohio Public Service company, will remove the rails and that the city will pay the cost of relaying the brick.

The program calls for the expenditure of $1,000 on Heineman boulevard to remove the grass plot from the center of the roadway and replace with brick from Rowland avenue to Helen avenue, and $2,500 for placing top coat on Central avenue from Grace street to Orange street.

The streets on which $2,000 will be spent for the repair and replacement of curbs and gutters are Vale avenue, Dale avenue, Mansfield avenue, Second avenue, Monroe street and West Park boulevard.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

Taken To Hospital—Mrs. Clara Shaw, 42½ West Second street, was removed to General hospital Wednesday to undergo treatment.

Bicycle Stolen—The theft of his bicycle from in front of the Madison theater last night was reported to police by Joseph Brunner, R. D. 4, Mansfield.

Goes To Jail—Convicted on a charge of indecent exposure when arraigned in municipal court today Walter St. Clair, 33, Columbus, was fined $10 and costs. Unable to pay the fine, St. Clair was committed to jail.

Joins Fraternity—George Keyser, Park avenue west road, a junior at Wittenberg college, has been initiated into the Wittenberg chapter of Pi Delta Epsilon, national journalism fraternity. Membership is based on two years of active participation on the staff of one of the three college publications.

RESIGNS POST

ASHLAND—Mrs. A. M. Mandeville, dean of girls at Ashland high school, and in the service of the local board of education for the past 23 years, has announced her resignation.

It was stated that the resignation will become effective at the end of the present term.

HEROINE AT 9

ST. LOUIS —(INS)— Martha Stultz, is only 9-years-old, but she is a heroine. Martha did not hesitate for an instant when a match ignited the dress of her playmate, Ruby Lee Morrison, 9. She grabbed Ruby and pulled the dress off her, although her own hand was burned in doing it. Through Martha's action, Ruby suffered no more injury than a little singed hair. Ruby's dress caught on fire when the two girls started to build fires.

BENEFIT, TOO

Employes of Parents Entitled to Old Age Insurance.

Wage earners in the employ of a parent or a relative are entitled to old age insurance benefits of the Social Security Act and are not excluded, R. G. Mish, manager of the Mansfield district office of the Social Security board said today.

"Many persons erroneously suppose," he said, "that family ties prevent the existence of the employer-employe relationship. Such persons may be confusing the provisions of the old age insurance with those of the unemployment insurance.

"In the case of unemployment insurance, many states exclude from the unemployment benefits, wage earners in the employ of a son, daughter or wife, or wages earned by a child under 21 years of age in the employ of his father or mother," Mish said. "This is true in several other states, but not in Ohio.

RUSH TO SIGN PETITION FOR WAGE BILL VOTE

Lawmakers Push Movement to Get Floor Consideration of Labor Measure.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—A mad scramble followed filing of a petition today to force a house vote on the revised wage-hour bill.

Members jostled each other and snatched at the document.

The petition was filed by Chairman Norton of the house labor committee as soon as the house convened. The petition must have 218 signatures to give the measure a new house test.

Speaker Bankhead, rapping vainly for order, was forced to suspend business.

The first member to affix his signature in the chamber—Mrs. Norton signed before presenting the petition—was Representative Dixon (D-Ohio), a member of the labor committee.

A large group of members had gathered in the well of the chamber almost a quarter of an hour before the session began, awaiting a chance to sign. Some of them argued about priority in signing.

2nd Petition More.

It was the second time since last November the membership had been asked to overcome, by the petition method, opposition of the house rules committee to wage-hour legislation.

Optomistic proponents contended they had "more than enough" signatures pledged to complete the petition today but Mrs. Norton said if 170 names were obtained the first day she would be "tickled to death."

If the petition is completed, the house could consider the bill by May 23—but not earlier.

The rarely-used petition method, endorsed in this instance by President Roosevelt, was designed to overcome the opposition of the house rules committee which refused to give the bill legislative right-of-way.

Sponsors said between 25 and 30 Republicans had agreed to sign. When a similar petition was used to overcome rules committee opposition to the original wage-hour bill last fall, less than 10 Republicans signed.

Democratic legislators said dissension in Republican ranks over the wage-hour measure was an important by-product of the fight.

Conservative Republican leaders, they said, wanted to oppose the bill openly, but members from northern industrial districts objected. It was from the latter group that proponents of the legislation hoped to get support to offset southern Democratic opposition.

One of the first evidences of Republican discord came when efforts to call a party conference on strategy failed.

Backers of the bill counted heavily on several other factors to aid their fight.

Among these they listed President Roosevelt's support, endorsement of the bill by the American Federation of Labor and the CIO and the decision of leaders to hold the house in session tomorrow. This gives proponents an extra day in which to get the petition signed.

TAKEN BY DEATH

William R. Boggs, 77, Stricken at General Hospital.

William R Boggs, 77, rear 81 East First street, died early today at General hospital following an illness of one year. He had been confined to the hospital since Tuesday.

Born in Mansfield, Mr. Boggs had lived in Mansfield for the past 12 years. He is survived by a daughter Mrs. Harry Crawford of Shelby; two sisters, Mrs. Sanford Rater of Ganges, and Mrs. Amanda Fireoved of Topeka, Kan., and a brother, Rolla Boggs of Shelby.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday at the Dick and Dye funeral home in Shelby with Rev. A. B. Allen, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiating. Burial will be made in the Ganges cemetery.

HEAR JACKIE'S TO BECOME DAD

Coogan's Friends Hint 'Blessed Event' on Way for Betty.

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Friends of Jackie Coogan hinted today "the kid" might become a father by year's end.

Jackie, embroiled in a $4,000,-06 accounting suit against his mother and step-father, met the hits with silence. Betty Grable, his bride of last November, indicated that Coogan was the family spokesman.

Mrs. Arthur L. Bernstein, Jackie's mother meanwhile brought the name of Bobby, his 13-year-old brother, into the accounting case.

"Jackie," she said, "apparently want all the money that Robert earned, too."

Woman Trapped In Blazing Home Land's In Mate's Arms.

XENIA, O.—(INS)—Lucille Pierson, 1, was thankful today her husband, Roy, was working nearby when flames trapped her in an upstair room of their house.

Mrs. Pierson jumped from a window and was caught by her husband. The two-story eight-room residence and two outbuildings burned before the blaze was brought under control.

Stop Signs to Be Brightened With New Paint Coat

Mansfield's stop signs are going to get a new coat of orange and black paint!

This announcement was made today by Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert after he had scanned a filed survey report turned over to him by City-WPA Engineer Glenn Weller.

The report, recently completed by WPA workers on the city records project, showed that approximately one-fifth of the city's boulevard stop signs were either in need of paint or repair.

The survey also showed that there were 181 intersections within the city limits where stop signs have never been installed were ordered by ordinance, but Styert said that within the next few days the street department paint crew would start to work stenciling and painting more than 100 signs. He added that another 40 or 50 shown to need repair would be replaced and that installations of new signs would be made at some of the intersections where there are no signs.

200 EXPECTED

District Hi-Y Council to Hold Co-ed Conference Sunday.

More than 200 high school boys and girls from towns surrounding Mansfield are expected here Sunday for the co-ed conference sponsored by the District Hi-Y Council at Central Methodist church.

Rev. Paul Hollingshead will preach a sermon at 10:30 a. m. for the visiting students and following registration at 1 p. m., the conference will get under way.

Principal Jesse Beer of Senior high school, will give the opening address with Frank D. Slutz, educator from Dayton, as the principal speaker.

Following a banquet, there will be a panel discussion with Miss Ruth Dunham, Rev. Hollingshead and Herman Bishop, assistant principal of the high school, leading the discussion.

RICHMAN BROTHERS

The Standard in Clothes

NEVER BEFORE in their history were Richman Brothers Clothes more popular than they are today.

The reason is plain. Never before did men demand their money's worth as they do today.

And when men want a full, honest dollar's worth of clothing value, they come to Richman's.

In fact, Richman Brothers Clothes are the standard by which values often are measured.

The materials are fine, all-wool fabrics, good for years of wear; the tailoring is the best developed in 59 years of clothes making.

The selection of styles is vast and varied; and the price is the lowest consistent with quality.

HOUSING GROUP CALLS ON CITY TO BACK PLAN

Committee Asks Social, Civic Agencies to Support Slum Clearance Program.

The Mansfield housing committee yesterday called upon the city's various social and civic agencies to back the proposed $2,000,000 slum clearance program here.

Meeting in the assembly rooms of the Chamber of Commerce, the heads of the various organizations were asked by George C. Kyle, president of the committee, to present their views on such a program for Mansfield.

He told the group that surveys had already been presented by the various city departments, showing the sections of the city where the greatest fire hazards existed, where the crime problem was the worst, and where disease and juvenile delinquency were more widespread.

Ask Recommendations.

In order to complete the survey, which will be presented to the state housing board for approval, Kyle asked the various organizations to submit in writing any recommendations that the committee might use to show the state board that slum clearance program in Mansfield was necessary.

Kyle said that much favorable comment was received at the meeting yesterday and that the committee hoped to complete its report within the next few weeks so it could be presented to the board in Columbus.

Should the board approve a slum clearance program for Mansfield, Kyle said, a local housing authority would then be appointed to go direct to Washington to seek the necessary funds to raze the property in the condemned areas, before construction on the low cost housing units would be started.

HAS BEST YEAR

Baptist Congregation Hears Report at Annual Session.

The best year since the congregation has occupied its new quarters was reported last night at the annual business meeting of the Park Avenue Baptist church.

The showing of sound moving pictures taken in the church by Harry Delaney, Mansfield projectionist, featured the program which was followed by a covered-dish dinner prepared under the direction of Mrs. Russell Haman. Rev. Hayes M. Braker, pastor of the church, presided as moderator.

Mrs. Wallace Campbell reported on the missionary activities of the church. The educational report was submitted by Dr. C. C. Kidwell, former church school superintendent, and the financial report by Tolman Burns, chairman of the finance committee. W. E. Wygant, jr., reported on the Christian Youth Forum, and Mrs. S. Glenn Vinson read the report of the Women's union.

HEARING OPENS

Injunction Case Involving Bowling Prize Begins.

Hearing of an injunction suit against officials of the national Moose bowling tournament held in Mansfield in March opened today in common pleas court, with Edwin L. Slagle, of Ft. Wayne, Ind., one of the participants, seeking to share in the distribution of first prizes.

A temporary injunction was granted three weeks ago, holding up the distribution of more than $1,000 in prize money. The action was against Donald D. Renner, secretary of the bowling tournament; H. H. Foland, president of the Moose tournament association; Fred Berry, treasurer of the tournament, and the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank, depository of the prize fund.

Slagle contended he was deprived of first prize in the all-events singles and doubles.

The defendants' answer to his petition stated that he won 21st prize in the singles and was entitled to only $5.

16 INSTRUCTORS NAMED FOR SUMMER PLAYGROUND SEASON

Names of 16 supervisors who will conduct activities on eight city playgrounds this summer were announced today by Floyd Dent, chairman of the Municipal Recreation board.

The supervisors were selected by the board at a meeting Thursday.

Those chosen and the playground to which they have been assigned are: James Garver and Margaret Maul, Prospect park; Howard Richards and Jane Williams, Hedges school; John Chatlain and Mary Stotts, Carpenter school; Betty Wolf and Edward Chatlain, Brinkerhoff school; Frank Izenour and Elizabeth Braden, Johns park; Robert Martin and Lois Baughman, Liberty park; Marie Hoover, Bushnell school; Elizabeth Miller and Grant Clark, West Fifth street school, and Orville Kibler, coach at Springfield township high school, supervisor of baseball.

Only one supervisor will be on hand at Bushnell school, Dent said. Activities at this ground will be for younger children only.

Activities on the eight playlots will begin Monday morning, June 20 and will be under the general supervision of Al Fendrick, athletic director and coach at Madison high school. Fendrick was employed for the second year as playground director.

Baseball for the younger boys will be one activity to be stressed on the grounds this year, Dent said. The baseball leagues will be under the direction of Kibler.

STUDIES BILLS TO AID NEEDY

Dargusch Called In to Consider Legislative Program.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Two bills turned over to Governor Davey by the Ohio League of Municipalities as its program of relief for large cities were studied today by Carlton S. Dargusch, former member of the state tax commission, who has been assisting in the preparation of relief legislation.

Dargusch said he expected two of the bills would be ready for presentation to the special session of the legislature on May 16.

One bill would provide for establishment of a state relief administration. The other would seek to extend the utilities, beer, malt, wort and admission taxes.

400 GOVERNMENT TROOPS SLAIN

Insurgents Mow Down Foes In Attempted Attack.

HENDAYE, Spain—(INS)—Four hundred Spanish government troops were slain as they attempted to attack insurgent positions along the Mediterranean coastal sector in the Castellon battle front, reports from Salamanca stated today.

The government assaults were speedily repulsed, it was claimed, and numerous prisoners, as well as quantities of war materials, were captured by the insurgents.

At the same time the insurgents said they carried out rectifications of their front lines near Alcocebre, where a "settlement" was reported captured

A Farmer's Diary

By Calvin A. Byers

IT WAS late in the day when dark violet clouds began to pile along the west horizon, and spread upward toward the zenith. The thunder spoke mutteringly of what was to come, and fitful flashes of lightning played along the skyline.

We gathered at the edge of the porch to watch. The children were half entertained, half alarmed. "Will there be much wind, Daddy? Aren't you ever afraid? Did you ever be in a cyclone? Do you s'pose this house might blow down?"

A line of white, rolling cloud appeared against the dark sky, the full length of the horizon. It approached rapidly. There came a hush—a quiet lull. The maple, its little leaves half formed, stood unmoving. The dog lay unconcernedly in the lane grass. Nan, the goat, stood on the rocky parapet beside the big barn doors, her ears pricked forward, stamping one forefoot impatiently. From the eaves a pigeon complained, mournfully.

A sudden puff of wind through the yard, caught a basket left there from the raking, and sent it scuddling off into the distant garden. It was getting darker. The line of rolling cloud was almost above us. We could not see the distant woods. Sharp lightning flamed and crashed into a deafening peal of thunder.

"Bang!" shouted one of the little boys.

Then the storm broke. The wind swirled the rain in opaque sheets of white. The garden was blotted out; the apple tree—even the maple just beyond the steps was hidden by crisscrossed skeins of rain. The roar of the wind was punctuated by flashes of lightning and heavy blares of thunder. Water poured from the eaves, overflowing the spouting.

The old house stood firm and solid—it had seen many storms. We went into the central and oldest room, part of the original home of the pioneer builder. This room faces away from the winds and opens upon a sheltered porch. From here we saw the tangled driving web of rain pass by and leave the landscape windblown and wet, but fresh and sweet and green.

The sky lightened. A robin lilted from the maple. The children, with the dog and goat, ran about in the lush grass. The air smelled cool and pure. We breathed deep in keen enjoyment.

A Maytime storm is so delightfully refreshing

ACTS ON SCHOOL PROGRAM TODAY

Board Expected to Take Option on Site; Million Dollar Building Plan Urged.

$1,570,000 which would require average annual payments on bonds than one-half in the past 10 years.

Dr. Holy's recommendations, included in a 68-page report, call for the proposed new junior high building in the southwest part of the city, since his figures show that 75 per cent of the new homes erected in the city since 1927 are south of Glessner avenue and Maple street and west of Main street. About 84 per cent of the new homes built in that period are south of Park avenue, he said.

The plot at Cline avenue and Wood street is owned by the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank and is a part of the old Stuhldreher estate. It is located directly back of the General hospital and affords the only suitable building site in the southern half of the city, Dr. Holy said.

The building survey was started last December at the suggestion of Supt. W. L. Miller, who proposed a five-year building program when he was given a new contract a year ago.

The survey, which cost the school board less than $1,500, forms a basis, he said, for the realization of the program and shows the need for more building space and improvements to old buildings in the city.

Finds All But 2 'Inadequate.'

In his recommendations, Dr. Holy described all of the city's buildings except two as "inadequate." Their age, he pointed out, has caused them to become outmoded according to present school standards.

Only two of the buildings have been erected since 1900. The Senior high school was completed in 1926 and the Woodland school in 1936.

Dr. Holy recommended elimination of the two-room portable building at Hedges school and the transfer of junior high school students there to the new building at Wood street and Cline avenue.

Some of the space released at the Hedges building by the removal of junior high pupils could be used for special classes for handicapped children, thereby relieving crowded conditions at the Carpenter. West Fifth and Bushnell schools, the survey said.

Housing space at the elementary schools in the city is adequate and the buildings are well-built and cared for, Dr Holy said, but shop, vocational, gymnasium and library accommodations are lacking.

Lack Libraries, Gyms.

Only two small libraries and two gymnasiums, both too small and inadequate, are found in the city's nine elementary schools, his report shows.

Despite agitation for a new building in the Roseland area, the recommendations discourage any plan for additional building space in that area until there are enough pupils to maintain at least a six-teacher school. There is sufficient space now at the Bowman school, the report indicates.

Dr. Holy recommends abandonment of the Brinkerhoff and Bushnell buildings in a later program for consolidating schools and eliminating elementary school costs. Both schools are so close to other buildings that pupils could easily attend other schools without going more than five-eighth of a mile, his report states.

Despite an over-lapping in the Carpenter school area, he recommends that that school be retained.

Since eight of the elementary buildings are at least 43 years old and two are 67 years old, replacement of at least six of the buildings within a few years is recommended. In the entire elementary system 85 classrooms are of non-fireproof construction, Dr. Holy's report shows.

He recommends a two-mill levy for financing the elementary school program over a period of several years as the most economical plan of replacing the outmoded schools. Such a levy would produce about $100,000 a year, he said.

Dr. Holy's report, which includes a comprehensive study of Mansfield's population growth, shows an 8 per cent increase in school enrollment in the past 10 years. Unless the city's growth suddenly spurts upward, the school enrollment will remain stationary in the next five years, the survey predicts.

CAPTURE YOUNG BANDIT SUSPECT

State Patrol, Village Marshal Arrest Accused Robber After Gun Battle.

had parked their cruiser at a gasoline station to watch traffic.

The officers followed the car until Willard drove into the curb to park and then pulled along side. Seeing the patrolmen and marshal, the youth attempted to escape by throwing his car into reverse and backed down the street for a short distance, Alexander said. The shots fired by the officers into the front of his machine halted him.

Patrolman Alexander said Willard fired only one shot, and that through his own windshield. It was this glass that struck him in the eye, officers believe.

Shots fired during the gun battle shattered plate glass windows at the Luther Danner drug store and the Arcade restaurant, both located on Main street in Loudonville.

Charges of highway robbery had been filed against the youth at Wooster today. Col. Lynn Black, highway patrol superintendent, said at Columbus that a charge of shooting with intent to kill and auto larceny also would be filed. Black said the auto, a 1938 Lincoln Zephyr, driven by Willard, had been stolen in Jersey City, N. J.

WARNING NEAR

France, Britain to Tell Nazis to Beware of 'Violence.'

PARIS — (AP) — A joint Franco-British appeal to Czechoslovakia to make utmost concessions to her Nazi minority and a warning to Germany against committing any "action of violence" on the Central European republic will be made within the next few hours, sources close to the foreign office declared today.

Representations by the two governments in an effort to wipe out a threat of European war will follow decisions made by the French and British ministers at their meeting in London a week ago to arrange a common front in defense and foreign policy.

Sir Nevile Henderson, British ambassador at Berlin, will see Field Marshal Hermain Wilhelm Goering today, it was said.

PERMITS EXPIRE

400 County Cigaret Dealers Need Licenses by May 23.

Nearly 400 retail and wholesale cigaret dealers in Richland county must purchase their new licenses by May 23 if they want to continue to sell after that date, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said today.

The licenses, issued at the auditor's office in the courthouse, are $25 for retail dealers and $100 for wholesalers.

Wolfe said permits were issued last year to 385 retail dealers and five wholesale houses. About 100 of the retailers operate cigaret vending machines, unknown a few years ago, the auditor said.

Receipts from the permits, although collected by the county, are divided among the state, county and local taxing districts.

FRIDAY, MAY 6, 1938.

Some folks lose faith in the efficacy of prayer when the horse they bet on doesn't win the race.

As might be supposed, some of the greatest enthusiasts for five-suit bridge are folks who haven't yet mastered the four-suit game.

Latest information is to the effect that seniors in a Montana high school have voted down a suggested motto—"WPA, Here We Come."

More New Homes Needed.

SOME idea of Mansfield's need for additional home-building is reflected in figures showing issuance of building permits in the city within the past four months, with a good start-off already made in May.

When it is considered that building permits are required only for intended construction inside of the city limits and that a considerable number of new suburban homes are being built around Mansfield, it becomes evident that, under more encouraging general conditions, this would have been an exceptionally active year in the building trades and in demand for materials.

A number of causes have contributed to the feeling of uncertainty that has prevented many prospective home-builders from going forward with construction—not the least of these being lack of confidence in the federal administration.

When, or if, this fear of future governmental interference with customary sources of wages, salaries and fair dividends, is removed by restoration of sensible governmental procedure, a release of idle money may be confidently expected to flow into the channels of home building, industrial operations and general business—thus providing more jobs for those who are competent to do some kind of necessary work.

It's the Giver, Not the Gift.

WHILE an occasional objection may be voiced to "commercializing" Mothers' day, it should be kept in mind that giving Mother some token of remembrance on this occasion is merely incidental and that the gift is a minor item, as compared with a mother's joy over being remembered and visited by her children.

Poetry and prose writers have run the gamut of expression in eulogizing motherhood and in attempting to portray the vastness of mother love.

Love and appreciation of Mother are among the finest of human attributes and serve as a quite definite line of demarcation between mankind and the lower animals.

Day after tomorrow will mark another observance of Mothers' day. The fact that this special day has been steadily growing in public acceptance indicates that more people are taking time to think, and are acting on the impulse to let Mother know they are thinking of her—or to visit her, if possible.

It is quite often the habit of young children to take Mother for granted. Ordinarily it is not until later in life that a child arrives at real understanding of the extent of a mother's care and of the sacrifices she would willingly make for her children.

Sometimes, unfortunately, this realization does not come until Mother has passed from earth and after it is too late to perform those little acts of kindness and affection which she would so much appreciate.

A Mothers' day gift is not measured by its cost—Mother's dearest treasures are without regard to intrinsic value. It may be only a lock of baby's hair or a long-kept toy that is most highly prized.

It doesn't take much to make Mother happy when she knows you are thinking of her. Be with her on mothers' day if you can—next best is a gift and a letter or telegram. There is still time.

Valuable Recruit.

MILLIONS of Americans who have never read a line of Thomas Mann's are pleased to learn that this citizen of the world is casting his lot with us.

He is acclaimed as the greatest living writer By no means a radical either in literature or politics, he nevertheless cannot breathe air that is not free. He has made himself ately the leader of the world's liberal thought. Exiled from Germany by the Nazi regime, and his property confiscated, because he failed to support Hitler, he took refuge in Switzerland and has traveled on an honorary passport from Czechoslovakia, which is Europe's "Little America." Now, with the Fascist menace hovering even over those free lands, he enters like any other immigrant under the German quota, and will take out his first naturalization papers.

He will thus join the "army in exile," a numerous and growing group of writers, scholars, artists, scientists and leaders in many other lines, who have escaped or been expelled from the countries now ruled by force.

This pure Nordic and Prof. Einstein, the latter already American, perhaps the two greatest living Germans, can understand each other. Perhaps they can both understand us better than we understand them. Never mind They are welcome, and they and their exiled brethren will help to build a greater, broader, deeper America.

Unsuccessful Air War.

THE PRE-VIEWS of the next world war shake the theories of some of the military experts An Italian general at the end of the World war foretold the supreme importance of air power in future wars. Armies and navies, he said, would be merely complementary and minor fighting instruments. "Command of the air" was the thing, and war from the air would be short and decisive.

His idea was that airplanes could bomb and destroy the enemy's "vital centers"—power plants, factories, railroads, arsenals, and so on. No people could resist this force. They would have to surrender. So victory would be swift.

The world has seen in Spain and China determined, persistent and savage use of air power. It has worked untold damage and has taken heavy and terrible toll of human life, civilians and soldiers, old and young. But it has not brought quick conquest. It has only proved that there is as yet no such thing as complete "command of the air."

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

MUCH of the glee of the conservative Republicans and Democrats over the La Follette-liberal break-away from President Roosevelt is being tempered to a cooler heat.

Governor Philip F. La Follette, who has taken the role of the titular leader of the National Progressives of America, is moving "too rapidly" in territory that is needed by conservatives to win. The midwestern farm states are "musts" for Republicans. If, now, Governor Phil and his brother, Senator Robert M. La Follette, should move on into Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Pennsylvania, where industrial workers are dissatisfied and well organized, the Republican goose is killed not only before it has laid the golden egg, but before it has been entirely hatched.

Nor are the La Follettes the only ones to be watched. Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York has been cavorting in the southwest, where he lived as a boy, and his cowboy stunts are said to have entranced the natives —having been more native than anything seen thereabouts in a quarter of a century.

Then there is Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota, classified as a Republican, but who is held in holy terror by orthodox Republican leaders.

And, also, there is Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan, classified as a Democrat, but considered no less than a Socialist by some southern Democrats, and whose very name is anathema to Wall Street. Governor Murphy has a liberal following that extends far beyond Michigan.

And there is an extremely dark horse in Mayor Harold H. Burton of Cleveland, a nominal Republican, but who got into office by licking both the Republican and Democratic machines twice.

The "trouble" is, of course, that there are New Deal Republicans as well as Democrats, and it is a wise hen that knows what will come out of the egg these days.

President Roosevelt may have the last laugh—as he goes out of office. His opponents are so determined to wipe him out that they inadvertently might bring in a really active leftist.

PROFESSOR SPEAKS

Politicians are used to attacks by other politicians In fact, they shed such attacks as ducks shed water. But when a professor attacks, that is a different matter.

A speech made by Prof Charles E. Merriam, of the University of Chicago, before the convention of the National League of Women Voters in St Louis, has aroused the anti-Rooseveltians. Professor Merriam has been a crusader for good government for many years. And he was one of the experts on government who drew up the Brownlow report, basis for President Roosevelt's re-organization bill.

Here are excerpts from Professor Merriam's speech which the anti-Rooseveltians did not like.

Professor Merriam predicted the ultimate adoption of this or a similar measure.

He predicted the end of the spoils system.

Of the bill killed in the house of representatives, he said:

"The principles of this reorganization were sound and good, and in the end they will prevail. They were blocked partly by the misunderstanding of sincere people not fully informed, and partly by the manipulation of men who could have been or were informed, but who were willing to wreck the train to spite the conductor"

"NON-PARTISAN DOCUMENT"

The Brownlow report was a wholly non-partisan document—and the initiative did not come from President Roosevelt, Profesosr Merriam said

To which the professor added

"For the record let me say that civil service features were the most comprehensive attempt to wipe out the federal spoils system that has been made in 50 years, they spelled the end of spoilsdom They added nothing to the power of the president, but, on the other hand, took away the patronage from any president

"The single-headed administrator was recommended by President Hoover — whose memory slips sometimes on this point. It was recommended by leading civil service experts all over the land. Must we preserve the spoils system to preserve our liberty?"

DICTATORIAL

Professor Merriam added:

"President Wilson and Hoover received from congress such powers to take steps toward more efficient and economical administration for the 130-odd agencies of government as were provided for President Roosevelt and his successors under the bill. . . .

"Precisely when or how did this simple democratic measure become dictatorial in character? Or was this issue a sham issue? When did a sound system of accounting and auditing become dictatorial in nature? Or was this a sham issue, too?

"SOME NICE RUINS YOU HAVE HERE, DUCE!"

Listen, World!

This Inferiority Complex Racket.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

I DOUBT if there has ever been such a perfect blanket alibi for General Cussedness as this Inferiority Complex racket.

Its advocates do not, naturally, call it a racket. To them it is a sincere and scientific explanation of certain weaknesses and failures which are beyond their control.

Once upon a time, erring mortals were held responsible for such weaknesses . . . and cussed out or kicked out accordingly. Then along came Psychology and explained that it wasn't really their fault at all. They couldn't help themselves. Because, once upon a time, something had happened to them. Something that chronically cramped their psychological style, as it were, and made them feel like a Dented Dime instead of Fifty Grand.

So of course, with such a handicap, they couldn't be expected to be up to a two-fisted fight, like other guys, but were forced to flop and take the count in the third round. F'rinstance—

SUPPOSE YOU FEEL EMBARRASSED WHEN YOU MEET STRANGERS?

Then that's the result of your Folks making you feel so dumb when you were a kid. And it's perfectly useless for anyone to tell you to give yourself a good kick in the shin and snap out of it. For you Just Can't. You've got an Inferiority Complex.

OR SUPPOSE YOU FAIL AT THE OFFICE AND CAN'T TAKE IT WHEN THE BOSS BAWLS YOU OUT . . . OR FIGHT WITH THE WIFE . . . OR ARE TOO SENSITIVE TO LOOK FOR A NEW JOB . . . OR GET BLUE SPELLS . . . OR THINK PEOPLE HAVE IT IN FOR YOU?

Then that's also because Somebody picked on you once . . . or laughed at you . . . or didn't give you a Fair Deal. And so you acquired an Inferiority Complex—n' there's no use expecting you to perk up like other people.

In fact, there's practically no error which you may commit, from chewing your nails to Mass Murder, which isn't, psychologically speaking, the result of some Bad Break when you were a Poor Helpless Little Child n' couldn't defend yourself.

SO, EVER SINCE, YOU'VE HAD TO BE A SAD, TIMID, MODEST, RETIRING SORT OF PERSON WHO NEVER GETS NOTHING FROM NOBODY, NOHOW, NOWHERE.

All of which sounds pretty impressive. Also familiar. For there are at least three in every office or large family who are working the theory overtime. And, I confess, I've fallen for the line myself countless times And would probably still be falling if it were not for one flaw in the picture. . .

According to the theory, these Inferiority Complex Victims are invariably Broken Blossoms who squirm along through life without even a friendly look from the Grand Stand.

A truly pathetic picture, which should wring tears from a cobble stone . . . save for one fact—

DID YOU EVER ACTUALLY SEE ONE OF THESE INFERIORITY COMPLEX GUYS WHO WAS EITHER MODEST OR RETIRING WHEN IT CAME TO GETTING ANYTHING HE OR SHE WANTED?

DID YOU EVER SEE ONE OF 'EM WHO WOULDN'T TALK AN EAR OFF AN ELEPHANT RECOUNTING HIS OR HER SYMPTOMS . . . OR WHO WOULDN'T BITE THE PROVERBIAL BULL DOG AND SPIT IN THE PROVERBIAL COP'S EYE IF YOU TRIED TO SHOO HIM OFF?

IN SHORT, DID YOU EVER MEET ONE WHO WASN'T THE MOST SELFISH, GRASPING, HARD-BOILED, BATTLING EGOTIST THAT EVER TOOK A SOFT-HEARTED SUCKER FOR A RIDE?

No, you never did.

And you never will.

And that's why I put my tongue in my cheek—and a padlock on my pocketbook—when I hear an Inferiority Complexer coming my way.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — Your correspondent is having dinner Alone. It is easily nine o'clock and he is quite disheveled. No shave. Cuffs and collar unfresh. You get that way at ball games And this wandering boy has just wandered in from the Polo Grounds, where a 12-8 slugfest has taken place. . . . That 12 to 8 score is mighty comforting, if you lean toward the Giants in your sympathies.

Anyway, as I say, it is nine or thereafter. . . . And over in a corner, quite secluded, or shall we say, quite out of the way of people, your man Friday is casually packing away an order of scrambled eggs, with sausage, when he looks up and beholds a familiar countenance

FROM the side it looks like Robert Montgomery. But this cannot be Montgomery, because he is in the west. There is a striking resemblance, however. A very strong resemblance, from this side. And then, for a split second, you get a head-on gander at this man who seems so familiar. You comb your intelligence for some clue, some tag-end of memory that will identify him, place him in your ken so you will be able to salute him as a man you have once known should be saluted—by his proper name.

And then you know A trick of lighting a cigarette, of discarding the burnt match, identifies him. You remember his striking a match that way months, oh, many months ago, in a distant city. And then it all comes back It is Fay Thomas of Cleveland, Ohio . Mr. Thomas is the manager of the Carter hotel, in Cleveland . . He is a Richmond, Virginia, man, a cosmopolitan who has lived in many cities I was once his guest in Cleveland, at a party the night before the Great Lakes Exposition opened. . .

And so a hastily scrawled note is sent over . . . He reads it . . . looks up . . . "Where is he?" he exclaims.

And we meet in an aisle, just missing knocking down a waiter with an over-loaded tray.

What of Fay Thomas?

Cleveland's Mr. Thomas has been down to Washington on a little business and just ran up to meet a few friends

AND how are tricks?

"Well," he says, "well, my son is in military school, you know. In Virginia he's at Augusta Military academy not far from where you went to school. . . . You're a University of Virginia man, aren't you? . . . Well, the boy has been made a corporal . . he's a non-commissioned officer . . and the moment the chevrons were stitched on his sleeve he wrote me a letter. . . . He said, 'Dear Dad, write me at once . . . and please address it to Corporal Thomas."

Which was pretty swell, eh? . . . We chat for an hour, and then he rushes away to catch a late train for a convention in Atlantic City. . . . As he goes out you say, "There goes Fay Thomas, of Cleveland." . . . But, he is something more than that, if you remember that letter from the kid in Virginia. He may be a big shot in business, but tonight, with that grin on his face, he is only the Corporal's Old Man.

Senator Learns Meaning of 'Billion'

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—How much is a billion dollars?

Senator Bulow of South Dakota, a shy and humble man, asked the question in the senate when he arose for one of his almost-never speeches. He opposed the billion dollar naval bill. He was sure the Germans were not going to invade the United States—at least for a while.

"It may be said that we are in danger from Hitler," he said. "I am of German descent. My father and mother came from Germany. I want to assure the senate that God is not going to tell Hitler to come over here and take us until he gets through taking the rest of Europe. That task is going to take him quite some time."

But let us get back to the billion. "When I first came to the senate," said Bulow, "I heard reference to a billion dollars, and I did not know what the senators were talking about.

"Then I got a notion that perhaps while I was in the senate, I ought to get for myself a billion dollars, and I started to figure to see just how long I would have to be here in order to get a billion dollars. I soon discovered that I would have to be re-elected before that was brought about. (Laughter.)

"I went home and got myself re-elected, and then did some more figuring, and when I got through I discovered that I would have to be here earning $10,000 a year as a senator for 100,000 years before I would get a billion dollars. It was discouraging. I was afraid some Republican would beat me before that time elapsed." (Laughter.)

Perish the Thought.

WHILE the senate laughed Mr. Bulow got his breath and went right on:

"This morning I received a letter from a constituent of mine who apparently is very strong for the pending naval bill, and he wants me to vote for it. He said we needed what was provided for in the bill, and he said, 'In order to get the money you can just reduce your salary as senator. You are getting too much money.' (Laughter.)

"Perhaps that is correct, but when we figure it out, all the salaries which have been paid for 150 years to all the senators who have ever served in this body would just about make a start, and when we come to make the calculation, we find that a billion dollars would pay all the senators in this body for a thousand years and longer. (1,041 years, eight months, to be exact.) It is a tremendous sum."

Sizable Displacement.

JUST to help out, we will add that a billion silver dollars, allowing one ounce to the dollar, would weigh 31,250 tons, a trifle less than one of the battleships now being built.

But then again, the national income is something around a billion dollars a week and President Roosevelt says the country won't really be prosperous until it ticks off about a billion and two-thirds a week.

Health Advice

Cites Danger of Carbon Monoxide.

—By DR. ROYAL COPELAND

SEVERAL years ago a commission was appointed to investigate the problem of carbon monoxide poisoning. The ever-increasing tolls of lives from this cause demanded action. I am glad to say there has been a marked decrease in the number of such unnecessary accidents.

It is wise to give frequent reminders of the precautions necessary to avoid the danger. It must not be forgotten that carbon monoxide poisoning is indeed extremely dangerous. The rapidity of its action is so great that death may result within a very short time. Of all the gases known to mankind, no other is so much to be feared as this. The inhalation, even of a small amount, may lead to serious complications and possibly death.

Odorless Substance.

It is an odorless substance found in illuminating and cooking gas The fumes of coal stoves carry it. The best known source is the exhaust of the automobile.

I emphasize the possible effects of this gas for I want all of my readers to realize its dangers. Carbon monoxide may be liberated by a faulty coal or gas stove, a leaky gas jet, a defective chimney flue, a break in the gas tubing, and escape from any appliance in which coal, wood, gas or gasoline is used as fuel.

When the gas is taken into the lungs and absorbed by the body, it combines with the hemoglobin or coloring matter of the blood, which is intended to carry oxygen, essential to the maintenance of life. When this happens, and the amount of poison gas is sufficient, death follows. If the gas escapes in small quantities, the victim complains of dull headache, sluggishness of mind and body, with inability to continue at work.

Was Common.

This used to be a common form of poisoning in certain workshops and factories where ventilation was insufficient. Today this danger is guarded against by the installation of proper ventilating systems and, in the face of necessity, the wearing of protective masks. Poisoning is now rare in factories and workshops because protective measures are enforced.

But it is the occasional menace that we must guard against. The victim receives no warning and unconsciousness comes on almost immediately. When this happens, an ambulance and doctor must be summoned at once, because immediate medical attention is necessary to save the life of the victim.

It is the exhaust of the automobile I have in mind today. Every motorist should be warned of this danger. Never tinker around your car in a closed garage If the motor is allowed to run make sure the doors and windows of the garage are open to guarantee proper ventilation.

Hints on Etiquette.

Before dessert is served, the table should be cleared of all plates and salt and pepper shakers.

MR. ZERO + + +

By PATRICIA WENTWORTH

(Copyright 1938)

CHAPTER XXXI

The name broke off a little short, because Mr. Brewster's hand had come out level with Dr. Hammond's eyes and it held a small automatic pistol.

"Put your hands up and keep them up!" said Mr. Brewster sharply. "Sit right back—I'm going to shut the door!" He did so, opened the rear door with his left hand, and got in.

Dr. Hammond felt the muzzle of the pistol cold against the back of his neck and cursed alond.

"Be quiet!" said Mr. Brewster. "You can put your hands down now. I want you to start the car and drive down that field track—the one I came out of just now."

With his hands on the wheel and the engine purring, Dr. Hammond said in a tone of concentrated fury. "What damn fool game is this?"

"Drive along that track!" commanded Mr. Brewster.

Dr. Hammond gritted his teeth and did as he was told. What a fool he had been. The fellow meant to kill him. A double murderer already, he couldn't afford to let him go. Play for time—that was the only thing. Stave it off and watch for the odd, improbable chance. He thought about Judith his wife and his heart was full of a bitter rage.

"Stop here!" said Mr. Brewster in that new sharp voice.

They were round a bend and out of sight of the road. The car stopped, and in a flash the pistol which had been pressed against the back of Dr. Hammond's neck was levelled at his temple. It was still in Mr. Brewster's hand, but Mr. Brewster was now standing outside the car looking in upon the driver's seat. Jim Hammond's moment had come and gone. He ought to have ducked and jumped for it the moment the pistol moved, but the whole thing had been so unbelieveably quick. He had had his chance and lost it.

"Hands up!" said Brewster. "And get out! I'm a dead shot, Hammond, so no tricks. I'd rather shoot you than not, because it would be safer for me, but I'll give you a chance if you do what you're told. Walk along the track in front of me and don't let your hands down!"

Jim Hammond thought, "He can't let me go. Why doesn't he shoot and get it over?" And the answer, "He'll drop me at the edge of the quarry—save him the trouble of dragging me there. No, not me, the body—Jim Hammond's body."

The cart track ran within 20 yards of the quarry's edge. When they reached this point Mr. Brewster gave another order.

"Turn right! Leave the track and go towards the quarry!"

It was rough, broken ground. Dr. Hammond had many thoughts. None of them promised very much. He thought of a sudden dodging swerve and a quick tackle. But he had to turn—he had to turn—and the pistol was no more than a yard away. The quarry's edge was no more than a yard away.

Algy turned off the road into the field track. This looked as if it was the right place, but he would soon know because of the quarry. William had made rather a point of the quarry, but you couldn't see it from the road. The track was muddy, and a car had been over it recently.

In a minute or two he came in sight of the car. The track swung to the right about a thicket of holly, yew, and leafless oak, and there, nicely tucked away, was the car, beyond it the quarry. He walked on, and a sound came to him, the sound of Brewster's voice, and yet not Brewster. He heard the voice before he heard any words, and before he saw either of the two men upon the quarry's edge. The car hid them. As he came on, the sound became words, the most unbelievable words.

"Im going to shoot you. Take your hands down and I shoot at once. Keep them up and you have another minute or two to live. You despise me, don't you? You thought I should cringe and ask you to hold your tongue. You made a great mistake. You made the same mistake that Francis Colesborough made. He thought he could use me, threaten me. Well, he had to pay for that. Sturrock paid the same price. He actually thought he could blackmail me, poor fool. Was that your game too, Doctor Hammond?"

Algy had reached the car. He heard Dr. Hammond snap out, "No, it wasn't!" and he heard Brewster laugh, which was a surprising thing in itself because he had never heard Brewster laugh before. The sound was a strange and horrifying portent.

Algy looked cautiously round the car and saw Dr. Hammond, a yard from the quarry's lip, facing him with his hands above his head, and close behind him Brewster with a pistol in his hand. They were about twenty yards away. If he were to shout, to run, what would happen? He thought that pistol would go off, and he thought Dr. Hammond would be a dead man. Suppose he sounded the horn. Would it make Brewster turn his head for just the fraction of a second which would give the doctor his chance? He thought the pistol would still go off and put an end to Jim Hammond's chances once and for all. The man who had shot Sturrock in his own pantry and got away with it must have a quite unshakable nerve.

As he thought these things, he was moving towards the quarry. That was the only real chance there was—to get nearer, to get near enough to startle the murderer out of his aim by rushing him. Even if he was heard, that might help. Brewster would be disturbed. He wouldn't know what the sound was—whether he had really heard it. He would be tempted to look round and have to fight his own fear of being taken from behind.

The rough grass deadened the sound of his feet. He had got to within half a dozen yards, when Mr. Brewster's voice changed. He said, "I'm tired of you. Out you go!" and fired.

Algy's shout and the shot rang out almost together. Dr. Hammond pitched forward into the quarry, and Mr. Brewster whisked round with the pistol in his hand. Algy ran in, swerved, ducked, and got him round the knees. A shot went wide. They came down together.

Algy had the surprise of his life. Falling on Cyril Brewster was like falling on an eel, an eel that writhed, contorted itself, twisted, and was out of his grasp. As he rose on his knee, he saw that Brewster was up already and that the muzzle of the pistol was only a yard away.

"If you move you're dead. Hands up!"

"I'm dead anyhow," said Algy. He put up his hands.

Cyril Brewster nodded. "Quite right. But just a word first. I've disliked a great many people in my life, but I've hated you. Now I'm going to pay off my score."

"But, good heavens, why? I mean, why should you hate me? I've never—"

"Haven't you?" said Mr. Brewster. "Think again! My people had to skimp and save to give me a good education. I took scholarship or they couldn't have done it. You were probably never more than half way up your form. You didn't have to work. You had time for games—I hadn't. And so you despise me."

"Brewster, you're mad."

"I assure you that I am not. I am your superior in every possible way, but you despise me because—you have money, and I haven't—you are an athlete, and I'm not—you have been to a famous school, and I haven't. Well, now I've got you on your knees to me."

At this point Algy got to his feet. He was certainly in for it. He preferred to be shot standing up.

Mr. Brewster did not shoot yet. He said sharply, "Keep your hands up! I want to tell you what has happened and what is going to happen. You have just shot Dr. Hammond because he had discovered that you were Mr. Zero. You are about to commit suicide. You will be found with the pistol in your hand."

"And a full confession in my left boot?" said Algy pleasantly.

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for May 8 is Mark 9:30-41, the Golden Text being Mark 9:40, "For he that is not against us is for us.")

What is it that is turning the world, not just the other side of the Atlantic and Pacific, but on our side as well, into a mad-house with hordes of men ready to spring at one another with worse than maniacal destructiveness? Is it not selfishness, either in the form of pride or greed?

Antidote to Selfishness.

Where shall we find an antidote to this madness that is threatening civilization? Only in the spirit of Christ and of the cross, as Jesus taught it to his disciples, saying, "The Son of man is delivered up into the hands of men and they shall kill; and when he is killed, after three days he shall rise again." "But they understood not the saying, and were afraid to ask him." Like folk who know they should consult a physician or surgeon, but fear to do so because they do not want to face the necessities of their case, so these disciples dreaded the disclosure of the stern necessity of the cross. It was not entirely clear to them, but it was clear enough that they feared to have it made any more clear.

Crosses Versus Crowns.

The reason they dreaded the cross for their Master was that they were unwilling to share the cross themselves. Even as he was telling them of his cross and sufferings they were disputing among themselves as to which of them was to be the greatest. They preferred to angle for crowns rather than to dangle from crosses! Instead of entering into sympathy with their Master in the impending crisis of the cross they were figuring on how they could turn this crisis, whatever it was to be, to their own selfish advantage. So, to teach them the lesson they needed on unselfishness and humility, he said, "If any man would be first, he shall be last of all, and servant of all." "And he took a little child and set him in the midst of them: and taking him in his arms, he said unto them, Whosoever shall receive one of such little children in my name, receiveth me; and whosoever receiveth me, receiveth not me, but him that sent me."

Intolerance Rebuked.

How self-centered their thoughts were, is shown in John's confession: "Teacher, we saw one casting out demons in thy name; and we forbad him, because he followed not us." But Jesus rebuked this effort of John's for a "closed shop" in religion, saying, "Forbid him not: for there is no man who shall do a mighty work in my name and be able quickly to speak evil of me. For he that is not against us is for us. For whosoever shall give you a cup of water to drink, because ye are Christ's, verily I say unto you, he shall in no wise lose his reward." Not "Do they follow us," but "Do they follow Christ" is the test of religious workers. He must ever be the center of gravity in spiritual work. If he includes a worker, who are we to exclude whom he includes, even though that one be able to do no greater service than the giving of a cup of water for Jesus' sake?

STAYING SUDS?

If Your Cleansers Are Up To Par The First Suds Lasts

ARE you getting full value from your cleansers? When you wash clothes or dishes do you get a quick, rich, lasting suds? Or does the first suds die away, forcing you to reach again for the soap package? Here's one sure way to make the first suds last . . . avoid costly "second sprinklings" of soap. Use a tablespoon of Climalene before you add soap. No fade-away suds here. This cleansing combination takes hold — holds on. No more grey washings . . . no film-dulled dishes. Clothes are immaculate . . . dinnerware sparkles. And you've doubled the life of the soap package.

HOMEGROWN VEGETABLES BEGIN TO POUR INTO FOOD MARKETS

From basket pansies for the garden to fresh cocoanut to top cakes, the week-end market it literally flooded with a variety of fresh vegetables and fruits. Homegrown vegetables are beginning to pour into the stores and among the available produce is homegrown spinach, radishes, water cress, kale, green onions, leaf lettuce, rhubarb, carrots, beets, turnips, asparagus, green, wax and lima beans.

Both strawberries and honey dew melons are more abundant this week and all types of citrus fruits are ready for the week-end shopper. In addition there are both red and black grapes, bananas, pineapple, limes, California pears and calavos.

In the vegetable line celery hearts and cucumbers are new. Other things to be had are mushrooms, French endive, head lettuce, broccoli, ascarola, cauliflower, eggplant, green and hot peppers, cabbage, parsley and celery root, artichokes, new potatoes, California baking potatoes and dry onions.

Summer squash and Italian squash, once available only in late summer and early autumn, can be purchased this week-end to serve with the Sunday roast.

Each question counts 20; each part of a two-part question, 10. A score of 60 is fair; 80, good. Answers on Page 20.

1. Identify this newly married couple.
2. Why was Melvin H. Gibbon, an American aviator, detained in Tokyo?
3. The New York Drama Critics' Circle chose as the season's best American play (a) "Our Town," (b) "Of Mice and Men," (c) "Golden Boy."
4. What guarantee does the United States want before allowing Germany to purchase helium in this country?
5. The British ambassador to Moscow protested against the Soviet government's arrest of Rose Cohen, a former British Communist, and other British subjects in Russia. True or false?

DOGS' NERVES SNAP, TOO

PASADENA, Cal.—(U.P.)—Dogs suffer from nervous breakdowns the same as human beings, according to Dr. R. M. Pritch... ...is now treating one. The fact that dogs have these nervous collapses has also been established by a series of experiments at Johns Hopkins university, he said. The treatment consists of light dieting and the administration of a certain vitamin.

Argentina, with more than 25,000 miles of railroads, is first among the Latin American republics and eighth among the nations of the world in number of railways in operation.

PIGS EVICTED

Akron Evicts 'Family' Living Within City Limits.

AKRON—(INS)—A mother and her seven children were evicted from their home here but nobody got excited. Those evicted were merely pigs quartered in the home of John Boyce. A city ordinance prevents housing of pigs within the city limits. Boyce made arrangements to keep the "undesirables" on the farm until they are ready for market.

SAVES PURSE

Fox Terrier Finds Pocketbook, Police Chief Breathes Easier.

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — (INS) — This fox terrier deserves to live off the fat of the land. When Police Chief Jack Dillon of Ceres, Cal., lost his leather pocketbook containing $85 in cash he was a very unhappy man. In fact, the whole family was unhappy and started a complete search of the house and grounds—but to no avail. About 24 hours after Dillon had given the purse up for good he noticed his fox terrier puppy sitting in his box and gnawing on the purse. The $85 was still intact.

Industrialists Organize to Block State Extravagance

BACK SUITS TO RECOVER FROM OHIO 'DEALS'

Group Hopes to Form Statewide Organization to Save on Public Funds.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—The support of a committee of industrialists and business men was thrown today behind suits to recover more than $3,350,000 which Agnes B. Dickenson alleges the state government was overcharged as a result of "political deals."

The committee purposes not only to asist Mrs. Dickinson but to make investigations of state administrative practices and to attempt to control state expenditures.

Organization of the group was announced by S. P. Bush, retired industrialist and former president of the Buckeye Steel Castings company of Columbus. Bush is chairman of the committee.

Other members are Preston Davis, treasurer of American Education Press; Walker T. Dickerson, Columbus shoe manufacturer, and A. H. Thomas, president of Buckeye Steel Castings.

Will Expand Group.

Bush's announcement said the committee intended to expand into a statewide organization and hoped to emulate the 200 taxpayers' associations in Massachusetts which claim to have blocked state extravagances totaling $50,000,000 and to have saved huge sums in municipal budgets.

The committee also intends to supply the public with information and figures to help it appraise state expenditures.

The committee's policy will be non-political, Bush said. He is a Democrat.

Mrs. Dickinson has named State Highway Director John Jaster, jr., and 50 other persons and highway contractors defendants in a suit to recover $3,000,000 which she contends was spent excessively by the state in purchase of paving material. Alleging many of the defendents violated the state anti-trust act, she also is asking another $3,000,000 as damages. Both sides now are taking depositions.

In the other suit Mrs. Dickinson is attempting to dissolve a hauling contract which Shaw Transport, Inc., has with the liquor department, and to recover $350,000 which she alleges was paid to the firm in excess of reasonable costs.

DIES AT AGE 91

Mrs. Youngblood One of City's Oldest Residents.

Mrs. Caroline Youngblood, 91, native Mansfielder, one of the city's oldest residents, died Thursday at the home of her son, R. J. Youngblood, Lexington road, following a lingering illness. She had resided with her son for 18 years.

Surviving besides her son are two daughters, Mrs. L. S. Bammerlin of Mansfield and Mrs. C. R. Barrett of Tacoma, Wash., a grandson, Donald C. Youngblood of Chicago, and a great-grandson.

The body was removed to the Geiger funeral home where services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday with Rev. Peter Young, pastor of the Congregational church, officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home.

Masonic Quartet Sings at Rites For Former Member

The Mansfield Masonic Temple quartet sang today at the funeral service in Coshocton for Charles J. Glover, a former Mansfielder, who was for more than 25 years a member of the quartet.

Mr. Glover, who was 76, died in Niles Center, Ill., Tuesday while visiting a daughter. He was at one time the owner of the Mansfield Printing company.

Members of the Temple quartet are Charles B. Bushnell, Dimon Herring, Wilbur Hegnauer and Loren A. Cook. Others from Mansfield who attended the funeral were Mrs. Herring and Mrs. Bushnell, and H. V. Henness and John Weil. The latter delivered the Scottish Rite ring ritual at the funeral service, which was held in the Presbyterian church.

SEES SUSPECTS

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Two men and a woman held by Bexley police as suspects in the $950 jewelry store robbery were to be viewed today by their victim, Mrs. Katherine Hurwitt, a clerk.

Mrs. Hurwitt told police two men entered the store while the manager was away and took two diamond rings valued at $950. The trio was captured less than an hour later.

Spur Probe of Two More Clues In Search for Torso Killer

Up and Down THE STREET

Flower gardeners troubled with the theft of their products might be surprised if they ever take the trouble to investigate. A Shelby resident, who was constantly finding his garden plucked of rare specimen, recently did just that, and, to his amazement, found that the trial led right to a school. Instead of the proverbial apple, the student apparently got the idea that a bouquet would be a good substitute as a gift for the teacher. The surprised owner refused to prosecute.

Visitors to Bushnell elementary school's open house and musical tonight will see a miniature merry-go-round that really works! It makes 25 revolutions to the minute and was built by the efforts of the boys in the vocational class supervised by Jerry Clause and decorated by first-graders under Miss Frances Bein's direction. The merry-go-round has cardboard horses and chariots big enough to hold dolls and brightly-colored streamers. All the painting from the horses to the canopy was done by the 6-year-old pupils.

For 19 years W. F. (Bill) Black, lawyer and pianist, has played the piano for Kiwanis club meetings. In fact he has played so long that Kiwanians have taken his musical efforts for granted. Yesterday, after 19 years, however, the club finally gave "Bill" recognition. The whole luncheon session was devoted to his program and a record attendance was on hand to hear "Bill" go to town with imitations of various band leaders. He even went so far as to play a number blindfolded and another facing away from the piano with his hands behind him. All in all, Kiwanians voted it one of the best programs in years.

RITES SATURDAY

C. F. Michael to Be Buried in Bucyrus Tomorrow.

BUCYRUS — Funeral services for Charles F. Michael, 63, widely-known Bucyrus industrialist and president of the Ohio Manfacurers' associaton, who died of a kidney ailment Wednesday, will be held at his Marion avenue home at 2 p. m. Saturday with Rev. Girard F. Patterson of Cleveland, archdeacon of the Episcopal diocese, officiating. Burial will be in the Oakwood cemetery.

A native of Cleveland, Mr. Michael came to this city in 1909 when he organized the Ohio Locomotive Crane company of which he was president. He also founded the Sozonian Vault company.

Surviving are his wife, two sons, Walter J. and Charles A. Michael, who were associated with him in business, and a brother, L. H. Michael of Cleveland.

2 MORE HOMES

Building Permits Issued For Pair Estimated at $10,800.

Building permits for two new residences with a total estimated valuation of $10,800 were among the four issued at city hall yesterday.

A permit taken out by Frank Hanson, 580 Russell road, calls for the construction of a two-story brick veneer home at the cost of $7,000. Allen Strong, 250 Lawnview avenue, will construct a brick veneer residence valued at $3,800. George Ciesla, Olivesburg road, was granted a permit for the construction of a double garage at $350 and Hiwatha Edmonson, 366 Oak street, will remodel his garage at a cost of $10.

DAVEY TALKS TO 350 IN ASHLAND

Defends Administration Record, State Intervention in 'Little Steel' Strike.

ASHLAND — Speaking before 350 persons of Ashland and surrounding counties at the annual dinner meeting of the Jackson-Jefferson-Wilson club at the Christian church last night, Gov. Martin L. Davey again defended his administration against the attacks of political foes.

Arriving late with a big entourage, including a motorcycle escort of highway patrolmen, Davey spoke on the accomplishments of his administration, referring frequently to the many welfare activites of the present state government, which, he said, were not even in existence before the depression.

Referring to the "dismal days of 1937" during the "Little Steel" strike in Warren and Youngstown, Davey said: "I am a progressive, but there was something different about the strike in the Mahoning Valley. It was un-American because leaders of the strike were proven to be communists."

Davey was followed at the speaker's rostrum by Jed Johnson, Oklahoma congressman, who outlined the principles of the Democratic party, and urged all Democrats to stand loyally behind President Roosevelt. He described Roosevelt as the "greatest humanitarian that ever lived."

Former Gov. George White spoke briefly as a candidate for the U. S. senate.

Mrs. Louis Wharton of Ashland, president of the club, presided.

LECTURER PREDICTS DOWNFALL OF AMBITIOUS HITLER, IL DUCE

Dorothy Fuldheim, Cleveland author and lecturer, painted a vivid picture of the war clouds that hang over all of Europe for an audience of 350 persons at Senior High school last night.

Mrs. Fuldheim appeared under the auspices of the Emmanuel Temple Sisterhood. She was introduced by Mrs. Army Hornstein, Galion, a past president of the Sisterhood.

Sharply attacking the regimes of Hitler in Germany and Mussolini in Italy, and warning that both are determined to become, with the aid of Japan, virtual dictators of the world, she also predicted their eventful downfall.

"There is a germ of destruction in every evil deed of dictators," Mrs. Fuldheim said, "even though others may suffer as well as they."

* * *

Outlining the ambitious plan of the two dictators, Mrs. Fuldheim said Hitler, having annexed Austria, plans next to go after Hungary and Czechoslovakia and then the rich Russian Ukraine, while Mussolini, timing his moves with those of his German ally, plans to seize Egypt. Both count, she said, on help from Japan in keeping Russia's mighty army split with an attack on Russia from the Siberian coast, to keep her from concentrating on the defense of the Ukraine.

She scoffed at the idea that all of Germany is solidly behind the Nazi regime, and also asserted that Mussolini's actual accomplishments in Italy were few.

"Germany is still busy building concentration camps," Mrs. Fuldheim stated, "if all was well in Germany, there would be no need for them. But they are always building new ones.

"Mussolini has cleaned up the streets of Italian cities, has 'deloused' the hotel beds and has made the trains run on time. We have done those here with street cleaning departments, sanitary laws and efficient railway management, and certainly without the need for a dictator to accomplish them. Yet in Italy wages are still ridiculously low and living conditions have not been improved by Mussolini."

Turning briefly to the civil war in Spain, she said it was not actually a civil war, but an invasion of Spain by foreign forces, with Italian and German fighters bearing the brunt of the campaigning of General Francisco Franco, insurgent leader.

"If you believe in democracy, you must oppose and condemn Franco and all he represents," she said, deploring also the brutality and torture of human beings by both sides.

The fear of war is present in all of Europe and in Great Britain, she said, describing the precautions taken in building bomb shelters in public buildings and even residences, instructions to prospective college students to include gas masks in their wardrobes and the presence in stores, in London at least, of cellophane envelopes in which to wrap babies in the event of a gas attack.

Of the Japanese invasion of China, Mrs. Fuldheim predicted that a Japanese victory would mean "the end of the white race industrially."

"Japan now turns out manufactured products at a cost far below anything we can touch here or in Europe," she said, "If Japan conquers China, she will put the Chinese to work in Japanese factories, and will cut her costs even farther, since Chinese are satisfied with even a lower standard of living than the Japanese."

HOOVER OFFERS 11-POINT PLAN ON DEPRESSION

Calls on Roosevelt to Abandon 'Dangerous Road'; Points to European Disaster.

(By Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY — Herbert Hoover presented to the nation today an 11-point attack upon depression and called upon the Roosevelt administration to abandon what he termed "a dangerous road for democracy."

The former president delivered one of a series of major addresses here last night at a "grass roots" convention of Oklahoma Republicans.

In the speech broadcast nationally Hoover again assailed New Deal policies and warned:

"We have been following that dangerous road for democracy that led to disaster in Europe."

Declaring that "despite every alibi this depression is the direct result of governmental actions" Hoover asserted the New Deal "proposes to travel further down this dangerous road . . ."

"And" he said firmly, "we are not gonig down that road without more fighting free speech."

Outlines 'Sane' Program.

For "a start on a saner and more cheerful road," he outlined as "practical steps":

"1. Re-establish confidence that there will be no more attacks upon the safeguards of free men. That is the independence of congress and of the courts.

"2. Restore common morals and intellectual morals in government.

In a democracy or in a Christian country the ends do not justify any means.

"3. Abandon this economy of scarcity and go in for production, work and thrift.

"4. Stop this spending and inflation and pump-priming.

"5. Revise the taxes so as to free the initiative and enterprise of men.

"6. Reduce relief expenditures by one-third, through decentralizing its administration. Take it out of the hands of wasters and politicians and put it back into non-political committees in each community and require the states and local communities to find 5 or 10 per cent of the cost. That will provide greater and more sympathetic care for those in distress.

"7. By the savings on relief, and reduction of other expenses and the end of pump-priming, drive to really balance the budget.

"8. Stop credit inflation juggling. Make the currency convertible into bullion at the irreparable 59-cent dollar and repeal all authority for currency inflation.

"9. Set up a court of 25 responsible, non-political men representing business, labor and agriculture to direct federal reserve policies and thus take that control of credit out of the hands of politicians.

"10. Give the employer and all branches of labor the same rights before the labor board and appoint judicially minded men to the board.

"11. Stop indiscriminate defamations of business and the creations of class hate. Use the courts for purposes of prosecution."

NEW CAR SALES FALL IN APRIL

126 Sold In County During Month, 22 Less Than March.

A marked drop in sales of new automobiles and trucks in Richland county during April was reported today by Norman P. Henry, deputy county clerk in charge of motor registrations.

New car sales during the month fell to 126 as compared with 148 in March, while the sale of trucks fell off more than half, from 45 in March to 17 last month.

Both April totals were far below those for the same month last year, when 329 new cars and 32 trucks were sold. Registrations of all motor vehicles in the county last month were 1,675 as compared with 2,474 in March and 2,149 in April 1937, the report showed.

'HEAD, HANDS' SLAYER DIES

Hicks Goes to Chair as State Claims 4th Life for Death of Ex-Fire Captain.

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind.— Herber L. Hicks, 40, died in the electric chair early today for the "head and hands" slaying of Harry R. Miller, retired Cincinnati fire captain.

Hicks' execution cleaned the slate of justice in atonement for the grisly crime. His three accomplices in the murder plot to rob the elderly Miller were executed last June 10. They were Frank Gore Williams, William Kuhlman and John Poholsky.

Miller was slain June 11, 1936 at his cottage near New Trenton, Ind. A long search for the missing man ended when the lime covered torso, minus head and hands was found under a culvert near Eminence, Ky. The killers had imbedded the head and hands in a square of concrete and tossed it into a lake near Carrollton, Ky. to avoid identification of the body.

Hicks lost his last hope of escaping the chair yesterday when Governor M. Clifford Townsend denied a request for commutation of his sentence to life imprisonment.

Before prison guards shaved the left side of his head and slit his trouser leg, ready for the chair, Hicks ate a last meal of steak and fried potatoes. Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hicks, his mother and father visited him in his cell.

Hicks went to the chair reiterating statements made at his trial that he was not in Indiana the night of June 11 when Miller was killed.

POLICE ARREST MAN, 70, HUNT LAKES SEAMAN

Cleveland Suspect Had Been Friendly With 2 Victims, Detective Learns.

(By International News Service)

CLEVELAND—Two new leads developed today in the investigation of the city's weird string of torso murders.

A man, 6 feet 2 inches tall and more than 70 years old, was taken into custody for questioning by Detective Peter Merylo, who has directed the torso investigation for more than two years. Merylo received a tip that the man had been an associate of Edward Andrassy and Mrs. Florence Polillo, two of the victims.

Police also asked the state highway patrol to arrest a sailor who was said to have predicted the discovery of parts of the body of the latest victim, a woman, in Cuyahoga river.

Starts Experiment.

Part of a leg was found in the river April 8, and the trunk this week. Merylo today was awaiting the outcome of a novel experiment by which he hoped to find the head and hands of the victim, and thus establish identification.

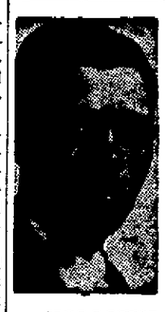
Merylo dropped a burlap sack filled with fresh meat into the river, and watched it sink after floating 50 feet. He believes the meat will rise to the surface after decomposition, and thus show the course taken by the missing body parts. The bag used by the detective in his test is marked with a metal tag asking the finder to notify police.

The daily Westbrook Pegler column for today was delayed in transmission.

Meanwhile, Coroner S. R. Gerber expressed belief the person responsible for the gruesome chain of murders may be a "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," perfectly normal most of the time but murderously insane at others.

Admitting the theory was only conjecture, he suggested the possibility that the slayer daily follows normal pursuits, and may be highly respected.

It is quite possible, Dr. Gerber said, that the killings may forever remain unsolved, but that they will cease either when the slayer's blood lust is appeased or when he is sent to an institution as insane, without the officials who order him confined knowing him to be involved in the slayings.



Hollywood Speaks—

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Fritz Lang, the director, tells the story of a movie that might have scooped history but couldn't.

Three years ago David O. Selznick, the producer, and Lang, newly arrived from Germany, were all on fire with the idea: an imaginative adventure about an American involved in a titanic upheaval caused by a campaign to establish "Asia for Asiatics."

As is the custom, they submitted the story outline to the Hays office, whose business it is to know (or find out) the international answers. Inquiries went out to the various consulates. And every consul thought it a great idea—provided his own country was completely "whitewashed" in the picture. So Messrs. Lang and Selznick, viewing with no excitement the dramatic possibilities in an international love feast, dropped the whole thing.

News headlines now dramatize that story, which still cannot be filmed.

More exactly speaking, the picture could be made, just as it could have been made when first projected—over the objections of several governments. There is absolutely nothing to prevent Hollywood's making a picture on any subject it chooses within the bounds of good taste—nothing, that is, except horse sense and business acumen.

And it is good business sense which keeps many a good film yarn in the story vaults, many a vital headline subject untouched or handled with kid gloves if at all. M-G-M, for instance, could film "It Can't Happen Here" tomorrow. But it would cost a lot of money, and it couldn't be shown in several countries (guess which!) where films about dictatorship aren't welcome. In those countries, too, the subsequent M-G-M product might suffer.

M-G-M has another great picture story in "The Forty Days of Musa Dagh." But Turkey doesn't want the dead past to come alive on the screen when it might embarrass Turkey, and Turkey has friends by treaty which could embarrass M-G-M's product.

* * *

There have been several pictures with Chinese and Spanish war backgrounds—but none unattended by awareness of censors. "Love Under Fire" avoided entanglements by avoiding the war almost wholly, Walter Wanger's "The Rising Tide" has a Spanish war background but is painstakingly neutral and avoids authenticity which might identify the characters as to loyalties. "The Last Train From Madrid" and "International Settlement" — Shanghai locale—were the usual love-under-fire thing. But Zanuck's "Siege of Alcatraz" seems to have been forgotten. They couldn't film it without seeming to take sides.

That is true, too, of themes based on the American labor situation.

"The truth is," says one keen studio censor whose job it is to keep scripts clear of censorship troubles, "that Hollywood can find ways to film any story it wishes. 'The Children's Hour' as a play couldn't be filmed, but the picture 'These Three' was highly acceptable. The same can be done with any decent theme."

Love Letters Cause Wife To Lose Faith

By VIRGINIA LEE

BROKEN - HEARTED WIFE has lost faith in her husband on account of finding "passionate" love letters from another woman in his pockets. He denies that he has been having an "affair" with anyone else, says he loves his wife. They have three children, and the woman she suspects also has some youngsters.

This wife doesn't want to see her marriage go on the rocks, she states, although her faith and trust in her husband have been destroyed. "Why is it that men don't care for decent, respectable wives and no-good women are praised and have everything done for them?" she asks.

Well, as a matter of fact, the "no-good women" as you call them, do not usually get the breaks for any length of time. They may fascinate men for a time, but when it comes to a question of said men breaking home ties and giving up wives and children for them, it doesn't often happen. Also the infatuation is usually short lived, and, if the wife has patience and will stand by, she wins out in the end. Of course her faith and trust in the husband usually is somewhat damaged and she suffers considerably from hurt pride and love slighted.

The wise thing for you to do is to stop talking about this other woman. Even if you cannot altogether believe your husband's protestations of innocence, there is no use argument about it. If you do not want to break up your home you must drop the matter and try not to think too much about it. It is hard, I know. Try to fill your life with the children and their affairs and with friends and duties. If you can put the matter out of your mind for a time you will be better able to get a true perspective. When one's emotions are so stirred it is hard to see things as they are.

Maybe this will comfort you. A physician of my acquaintance recently gave as his experience that the jealous woman seldom has an unfaithful husband. And "contrariwise," if the man really is unfaithful his wife will swear by him. You MAY be mistaken, you know. It has always seemed odd to me that if a husband is having an affair with another woman he should leave incriminating evidence in his pockets or other places where his wife is likely to find it. Seems rather stupid, doesn't it? Why not try to think there is another explanation of these "passionate" notes?

BLONDIE: I suppose both boys, your first boy friend and his brother, have lost faith in you because you went with the first one and fell in love with the brother. The fact that the brother continued to go with another girl, even while he professed love for you, shows that he is not sincere.

It would be much better to put both these boys out of your mind. No use setting your heart on a man who is going with another girl. And putting yourself in this girl's place, you can imagine you would not appreciate having another girl trying to take your boy friend away, would you?

ALBERT: I am afraid I do not know of any way for you to communicate with a lonely girl. I cannot give you the address of anyone who has written me. I very seldom have the names and addresses of my correspondents.

Do you not know any boy friends? Such pals usually introduce a chap to their sisters, cousins and girl friends. You can attend church and meet girls in the societies there. Or you could join some other social group and get to know them.

BROKEN HEARTED is a high school girl and has lost her boy friend to another girl. She badly wants him back and wonders how it can be brought about. Her closest friends say he isn't worth bothering about, but she knows he is. "They don't know him as I do," she states.

Well, dear, if he left you before and came back, maybe he will do it again. Why not sit tight, try not to show you care, and wait developments?

—Beauty—

Care In Buying Keeps Costs Rather Low

By JULIET SHELBY
(Central Press Writer on Beauty)

THE OLD ADAGE that only the rich woman can keep up her looks is as outmoded as high shoes. Time was when anyone could say, "Well, naturally she looks marvelous. She has got loads of money and nothing to do but spend it."

Don't kid yourself with that excuse any longer. There is no reason in the world why anyone can't get the beauty preparations and makeup that they need. And you won't have to do any high financing with the household budget. Try shopping for your beauty aids just as you shop for a dress bargain.

It has been claimed that a girl from fifteen to twenty will have to spend only $15 a year for skin preparations and makeup From twenty to thirty it runs to about $23, and from thirty on you should allow from $35 to $40.

This department really thinks that that is a fairly high average. You can do a lot better if you do a bit of canny shopping. But, like all economies, saving on beauty aids has its little tricks. First, do not do endless experimenting. Select the preparations that seem best suited to your skin and then learn how to apply them to get the most happy results Then you will not find yourself owning a lot of different things that are completely useless and won't work well together.

Double Action Products.

Make a list of the skin preparations that you need to keep yourself in shape. In the cream, lotion and powder line you will find that buying in large quantities will turn out to be quite a saving. And you won't suddenly find yourself out of your favorite and have to buy anything you can get at the nearest store just to be tided over.

Another great help is the double and triple purpose products that are on the market now. You can get creams that will serve as cleaners, lubricants and foundations.

Loads of the hand creams and lotions can be used as body rubs, powder foundations and protections against sun and wind. And there are lots of liquid and cream cleansers that have bleaching elements as well Certain face emollients, some of which are made from avocados, can be used as night creams, for chapped skin, for after bath rubs and for hands and elbows. Lots of the eye creams are now made so that they can be used to give you that last makeup touch, glossy eyelids.

After paying your money and taking your choice, the next most important tip is to use your preparations discreetly. We don't mean to begrudge yourself every touch of cream or drop of lotion That would take the joy out of the whole affair — but don't apply things with too heavy a hand Use just enough cream to dissolve on your fingertips. In this way you can spread it over your face much more beneficially and it will last a lot longer. When you are using lotions, first dip a piece of absorbent cotton into cold water squeeze the water out and then put a few drops of the lotion on your cotton. It will feel delightful and exhilarating and you will be surprised at how far your lotion will go.

If you follow these little hints you will find that you can help yourself to beauty without making papa or husband storm about feminine extravagance and the latest depression.

When planting gladiolus bulbs or corms, it is well to remove the outer skin, although this is not necessary. It is best to open a spot for them with a trowel, setting them in an upright position The top can usually be identified because of being a little pointed

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I do not believe that any "real" actress ever had a headier or a more sincere tribute than the one of tears which Mary gave me as I finished my rendition of the role I had written and which Philip Veritzen had promised her she should create when the play went into rehearsals.

But her wail that she never would be able to interpret the role as I had just done made me forget everything except the necessity of reassuring her.

"Don't talk nonsense!" I told her sharply. "I thank you most sincerely for your tribute; it means a great deal to me, but you are going to give a much better rendition than I have just given."

"You're the one that's talking nonsense," she said, drying her eyes, and facing me a bit belligerently. "I may live a long time, but I never expect to see a better depiction of a role than the one you have just given me. Oh Auntie Madge! Why didn't you go on the stage? What an actress you would have made!"

"I would infinitely rather be instrumental in giving you your place in the sun," I told her.

Mary Determined.

"Well!" She snapped to attention. "It would be a pretty poor return for me to fail you. I'll never be able to equal you, but if I can do only half as well, I'll be putting over something that will make Father Veritzen sit up and blink those jaded eyes of his.'

"That's the goal on which I want you to keep your eyes," I told her. "We'll not quarrel over the comparative merits of our renditions," I smiled teasingly at her, "but I shall ask you to be patient with my teaching. I am afraid it is going to take some very hard work on your part to forget what Mr. Veritzen has taught you. And when I correct your rendition, as I probably often shall have to do, I do not want you to get discouraged. You have a spark of the real thing within you, Mary, and it is going to be my greatest joy if I can bring it out."

"More power to you," she said, and I knew that the apparent flippancy covered an earnestness of purpose as rare as it was forceful.

"Suppose we begin now," I said in quiet, matter-of-fact tones, and she answered me in kind.

"Okay! At your service," she said, walking back to the door and beginning the first hour of a grueling grind under which 99 out of 100 girls would have faltered and rebelled, if they did not give up the whole thing in despair.

Unfailing Courage.

But never once did I see even the shadow of a frown upon her face, or hear a despondent note in her voice.

I drove her mercilessly—I had to—for there was so much to do and so little time in which to do it, but I heard no more wails that she could never hope to equal my interpretation.

"I'll get this thing or die in the attempt," she said repeatedly, and I knew that with every repetition of the slogan her courage and determination were being bolsterd.

We pressed Miss Whitlock into service, and she "spelled" me in cueing Mary, giving me a better opportunity to watch the gradual transition from the stilted acting which Philip Veritzen had given her to a living, breathing interpretation of the role for which she was temperamentally fitted.

So anxious was she to work that I feared she might become overtrained, and it was with something very like relief at the unexpected solving of a problem that I answered the telephone one day and received an expected message.

"Missis Graham," Katie's voice said excitedly. "Meesis Bickett she telephone she und keeds und big boys all coom home tomorrow. You coming out to see dem?"

"Why should Public Speaking interest me?" you ask. "I'm not a politician, club president, or radio announcer!"

But you are interested in conversational come-hither — whether it's a date for two or an award at your tennis club.

Start your home speaking course by making a friend of your voice. Read aloud. Notice what emphasis does. Say "I love YOU," then "I LOVE you." Next give the phrase inflection—shout it, whisper it.

It's fun—and excellent training —to see how much emotion you can put into your voice using meaningless syllables — such as "um," "ni," "po," and so on—instead of words. Practice before a mirror.

Soon you'll be eagerly explaining a new game to the crowd, giving a committee report, making an important announcement.

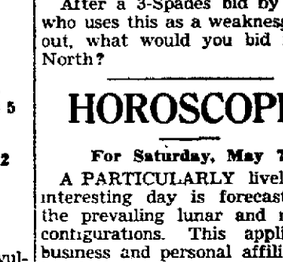
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

CONSIDER THE FACTS

IF YOU ARE planning to lead your partner's suit, think of the circumstances under which he made his bid. Was it an opening bid? Was it a mere overcall? Was in response to a bid from you? Was it perhaps forced out of him by your own informative double? These four types of calls all range weaker and weaker in minimum strength required. In fact his response to your double required no high cards. Bearing that in mind may make you decide not to lead his suit at all.



(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

At two tables of a duplicate tournament, the same bidding occurred on this deal, with West initiating a spade. North doubled, East passed, South called 2-Hearts, West 3-Diamonds, East 3-No Trumps, West 4-Clubs and East 4-Spades, which North doubled.

One of the North players opened the A of his partner's heart suit. West ruffed, led to the spade K, ruffed a small heart to provide against four shown by South's response to the double, then led two more spades, winding up in the dummy. He then flashed four heart leads in quick succession, discarding two clubs and two diamonds, North making the mistake of holding two each in these suits. A club put North in to get two tricks there, but he had to give West a diamond trick.

At the other table North led a spade, remembering his partner's heart bid had been coerced. When in again from a club trick, he led his other spade. Now try to make the contract!

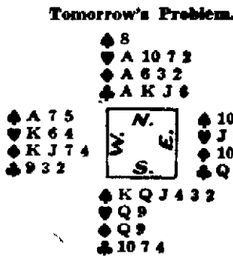
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

After a 3-Spades bid by South who uses this as a weakness shutout, what would you bid in the North?

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, May 7.

A PARTICULARLY lively and interesting day is forecast from the prevailing lunar and mutual configurations. This applies to business and personal affiliations, in which much enterprise and initiative are probable. But all call for deliberation, prudence and forebearance, as there are some peculiar lures, temptations and probable pitfalls. However, there may be some gain, and good news may figure in profitable decisions.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a very lively and interesting year, with much stirring in the private, social, emotional and business lives. While speculation and affairs of chance might in the end prove profitable, yet there are pitfalls, intrigues and perils to be handled prudently. Well-meaning friends may lure one to folly and loss.

A child born on this day may be extremely lively and enterprising, reaching for a place in the limelight by bold and brilliant gestures that may entail extravagance, indulgence and unenviable notoriety. Such traits have very early detection in "showoff" children who clamor for attention.

Heating raisins in a wire sieve over a steaming kettle makes the raisins plump. To prevent their falling to the bottom of a cake, flour lightly and shake well after beating.

MOTHER'S OLD-TIME NUT CAKE

⅔ cup Spry — 2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt — 2 cups sifted flour
1½ teaspoons vanilla — ⅔ cup water
½ teaspoon almond extract — 1 cup nuts finely chopped
1 cup sugar
3 eggs, unbeaten

Combine Spry, salt, vanilla and almond extract. Add sugar gradually and cream until light and fluffy (See how quickly and thoroughly this triple-creamed shortening mixes.) Add eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition.

Add baking powder to flour and sift 3 times Add ¾ of flour to creamed mixture in small amounts, alternately with water, mixing after each addition until smooth Add remaining ¼ of flour to nuts, mixing well. Then combine with first mixture and blend Pour batter into 10x10x2-inch pan greased with Spry. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 45 to 50 minutes Spread Vanilla Cream Frosting on top and sides of cake.

VANILLA CREAM FROSTING

1 tablespoon Spry — ¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon butter — 2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
¼ teaspoon vanilla — 5 tablespoons scalded cream (about)
½ teaspoon almond extract

Combine Spry, butter, vanilla, almond extract, salt and blend. (Notice how much creamier frostings are, made with Spry—how moist they stay.) Beat in ½ cup sugar. Add hot cream, alternately with remaining sugar, beating well after each addition Add only enough cream to make a nice spreading consistency Makes enough frosting to cover top and sides of 10x10-inch cake.

(All measurements in these recipes are level.)

LET ME TELL YOU ABOUT MY NARROW ESCAPE FROM "MIDDLE-AGE" SKIN!

"I'M only 22, so I thought that the danger of 'Middle-Age' Skin was just a joke until I noticed my own complexion was dry, lifeless, coarse-looking. Here's what I did to make it soft and smooth again:

"I changed to Palmolive Soap! Because it's made with Olive Oil . . . a special blend of Olive and Palm Oils, nature's finest beauty aids. Soon its gentle lather made my complexion soft, smooth, radiant again!

"My advice is, use only Palmolive, the soap made with Olive Oil!"

Made with OLIVE OIL to keep skin soft, smooth, young!
